SHROPSHIRE PARISH REGISTERS.

HEREFORD DIOCESE.

VOL. XVI.

ISSUED BY

The Shropshire Parish Register Society.

Note for the Reader.

The sixteenth volume of the Registers of the Diocese of Hereford, now completed, contains the Registers of Oldbury, Church Preen, Burford, Badger, Willey, Neen Sollars, and Milson.

In this, as in all previous volumes issued by the Society, the Registers are not printed in full, but in an abbreviated form which can readily be understood, though every salient fact has been recorded, and all remarkable events, occurrences, etc., noted in the Registers have been given in full. A list of the abbreviations adopted will be found in the "Note for the Reader" printed in many of the earlier volumes of the Registers.

The value of the Badger Registers is increased by the addition of the Transcripts preserved at Hereford of an earlier lost Register, through which the entries for forty-three additional years have been here given.

A capital letter after "of" or "p" denotes the parish whose particular Register is dealt with; thus "of O." = "of Oldbury," and "p. B." = "parish of Burford."

Thanks are due to the Incumbents of the several parishes for leave to print their Registers, and for facilities afforded in their transcription and collation. Also to Mrs. Baldwyn Childe, Miss Auden, Miss Joyce, Mr. T. R. Horton, and the Revs. J. P. Wright, R. Jowett Burton, and W. G. D. Fletcher, for transcribing and collating; to Lord Forester and Mrs. Baldwyn Childe for defraying the cost of Willey, and to the latter for raising the money for Burford; also to the Rev. A. W. Dix, for the transcripts of the lost Badger Register.

Oldbury Registers.

OLDBURY is a township, village and parish on the road from Bridgnorth to Cleobury Mortimer (Bridgnorth Station on the Severn Valley Branch of the Great Western Railway being in the parish), in the Chelmarsh Division of the Stottesden Hundred, Bridgnorth Rural Deanery, Ludlow Archdeaconry and Diocese of Hereford. The population in 1801 was 107, whilst in 1901 it had risen to 296.

Close to the north-eastern boundary of the parish, there is a fortified hill called Panpudding Hill, which local tradition connects with the siege of Bridgnorth by the Parliamentary troops in the reign of Charles I. It is very likely that cannon for the bombardment of the castle were placed on the top of the mound at that time, but the mound itself is of much older date. It most likely represents the site of one of Ethelfleda's castles, erected in 913, and probably destroyed before 1085. It stands 130 feet above the river Severn. It is a circular in formation on three of its sides, and is artificially scarped. On the west side lie the strongest entrenchments, and here the fosse is 5 feet deep, and there is a small bailey commanding the narrow portion of the hill.[1]

The Parish contains about 800 acres, and was originally a portion of the great Parish of Morville, but about the year 1148 Helyas de Constantine founded a Chapel and cemetery there, endowing it with about 30 acres of land and a mansion. Robert (de Betune), Bishop of Hereford from 1131 to 1148, consecrated the Chapel and cemetery "in defence of the poor," and ordered that the Churches of certain Parishes (of which Oldbury was one) "shall be subject to their Mother Church, as daughters, so that on the chief festivals the whole people shall repair to the Mother Church, and the Priest of the Mother Church shall cause the bodies of such deceased persons as he will, to be carried to the cemetery of the same." (Salop Chartulary, No. 139.) Part of the south wall of the present Church of St. Nicholas is old, but Cranage is of opinion that its rather large stones do not date so far back as the twelfth century. With this exception, the Church is modern, having been rebuilt in 1858 and 1862 by the exertions of the Rev. John Parton. It consists of chancel, nave of three bays, north aisle, south porch, and western bell-turret. The only ancient fittings of the Church are the Laudian Altar-rails and the Bell, the three stamps on which indicate that the founder was Robert Crowch, of London, who was working about 1440. In 1549 and 1745, there were three bells. The third bell seems to have disappeared between 1740 and 1752. The second bell was sold in 1862 when the ancient distinctive 'pigeon-cote' tower was replaced by a slender stone turret. There is a parochial tradition that this bell is now in the turret of the new Church at Jackfield. The Jacobean chest in the Chancel and the board on the west wall of the Aisle, bearing the curious old Latin inscription, DISCE MORI MUNDO VIVERE DISCE DEO VIVE DIU SED VIVE DEO NAM VIVERE DEO EST VIVERE DIU, have only been placed in the Church during the incumbency of the present Rector. The oak panelling round the Church (the 200 panels of which are all of different design), was carved in the Parish and neighbourhood during the same period.

The history of the Manor, as far as it can be traced in the Blakeway MSS., is as follows:—"One Elward held Aldeberie in the Saxon times, and it was rated to the Danegeld at a hide and three virgates. After the Conquest it was holden under Earl Roger by his Sheriff Rainald, but Ralph was the immediate tenant. The arable land was now increased to three carucates, one of which was demesne, and cultivated by seven servants: the other two were occupied by three Frenchmen, two cottars and a bordar. There was yet room for two more carucates. A mill, and a wood for one hundred swine formed appendage to this Manor."

The family of Fitz Alan succeeded, though it is not exactly known how,[2] to the possessions of Rainald the Sheriff, and became lords paramount of Oldbury. Under them, it was held by the family of Costentin, whose principal possession was Eton Costentin (Eaton Constantine). The history of the manor of Eaton Constantine and Oldbury is, at this time, and for some years after, the same. In 1290, Adam de Montgomeri, who married Isabella de Constantine, is found to have died seised of it, as a member of that superior manor. In 1316, the manor had passed by some unknown means into the hands of the celebrated Walter Langton, Bishop of Chester (Lichfield), who had filled the high stations of Chancellor and Lord Treasurer. The Bishop died in 1321, and the manor passed, probably by purchase, into the hands of Edward Peverell. Peverell, by Elizabeth his wife, had issue a daughter Margaret, who married William de la Pole, cousin german of the great Michael de la Pole, who, though son of a merchant of Hull, became Earl of Suffolk and Lord Chancellor of England. In 1358, it was sold to Henry le Goldsmith, a wealthy merchant of Bridgnorth, who twice represented the borough in Parliament. Mr. Goldsmith's daughter and heiress, Johanna, married John Langley, cousin and heir of Sir Geoffrey de Langley, Knight, of Warwickshire. Mrs. Langley died 1418, and was buried at Bridgnorth. In her epitaph, which is preserved in an Harleian MS., she is called Lady of Oldbury. In 1470, Isabella, relict of Walter Langley, of Over Sodington and Knolton, co. Glouc., was lady of the manor. She was daughter and heiress of William Pole and Margery his wife. This Margery was daughter of John Langley of Milcote, co. Warwick, who, in all probability, was husband of Johanna Goldsmith. Isabella's son William died seised of the manor in 1483. In 1550, it was in the hands of the Peyton family. It afterwards became the property of the Robsarts. After the death of Amy Robsart, Countess of Leicester in 1560, the Robsart estates passed to her father's sister, Lucy, wife of Edward Walpole of Houghton (ob. 1595), whose eldest son, John, succeeded to the reversion of the property, which included the estate of Oldbury, which reversion he sold in 1566 to Arthur, natural son of Sir John Robsart. He lived at Oldbury for many years, and was still there in 1595 with his wife Margaret, widow of Arthur Cocket of Sibton (Suffolk), although he had sold the manor in 1578 to Robert Greene and his heirs. In 1634 it was in the hands of Robert Smallbroke, who in that year sold it to Charles Cornwallis. The manor eventually passed into the Acton family, and Lord Acton is the present lord.

The following persons belonging to Oldbury were assessed to the Subsidy of 1327:—Nicholas Deveroys, John Crouk, William Hobald, William Bercar, Richard de Cleobury, John de Oldebury, Richard le Knyght, and Henry Osmund.

About the year 1141, Robert de Heding was "Rector of the Chapel" of Oldbury. Eyton says of him "Robert de Hastings, alias Hedding or Hedinges was sometime Rector of Oldbury. As Robert de Halechton, Allechtone or Aluhton (a name probably derived from some Haughton in Shropshire, where he may have resided), he occurs almost as frequently as under his first designation. Like other ecclesiastics of wealth and position, he seems to have been involved in secular affairs."

Nothing is known of any other Rector until 1277, when one John was Rector either of Oldbury or (possibly) Onibury. In June, 1299, "Master

[2] Eyton thinks it was by grant from Henry I. after his marriage with Queen Matilda, in whose suite the ancestor of the Fitz Alans came.

Lucas de St. Leonard, Clerk," was appointed to Oldbury by the Abbot and Convent of Salop, but he was not instituted until June 4, 1300. In March, 1309, Master William de Pollileye, acolite, and in May, 1311, Master Stephen de Clinton, acolite, were appointed by the same patrons. The probable explanation of the delay in the institution of Master Lucas, and of the fact that his two immediate successors were in minor orders is that the Abbey of Salop, which was the patron, had got hold of the income of the benefice, which they enjoyed during vacancy, or when they appointed 'men of straw' to be nominal Rectors. (See Dr. Cutts "Parish Priests and their People in the Middle Ages in England," pp. 95—100). The appointment of acolites as Rectors was an evasion of a Canon of Otho 1237, which required that a man instituted into a Vicarage should be a Deacon at least, and proceed to take Priest's Orders in the course of the first year. It is not improbable that the two acolites were in temporary charge of the Benefice for the Abbey of Shrewsbury, which had unconstitutionally assumed the position of Community Rector.

After the time of Stephen de Clinton, nothing beyond their bare names is known of the Rectors of Oldbury for 230 years. In 1538—9, Sir Roland Gosnyll (or Gosnell) was appointed Rector by Katerine Blount, Widow, and Walter Blount, grantees of Salop Abbey. In 1555, Gosnell was appointed Vicar of Tenbury, but apparently did not vacate Oldbury, for although in 1556 John Gryse was appointed to Oldbury by Robert Poynes, grantee of Salop Abbey, Gosnell appears to have held the Living till 1560, when he was deprived of Oldbury at the Visitation of the Diocese by Queen Elizabeth's Commissioners. (Two years later the Commissioners deprived him of Tenbury.) In that same year (1560) Richard Sheser was appointed to Oldbury by Humfrey Butler, grantee of Salop Abbey. It does not appear what had become of John Gryse. In 1562, the parsonage finally passed into the hands of the Crown. The entry "1587. Conclonator W.V." after the name of James Bretten may indicate that he received a preacher's license at the Visitation of Bishop Westfaling (Bishop of Hereford from 1585 to 1603). James Cressett, Rector from 1641 to 1648, when he was appointed to Cound is the only recorded instance of a Rector of Oldbury leaving the Parish for another living. Towards the close of the Civil War, in 1646, when the Puritans were in power, Shropshire was divided into Classical Presbyteries. Oldbury was one of the 39 Parishes that formed the Third Classis. James Jephcott (inducted August 14, 1648) was a Presbyterian, and was one of the fifty-seven Shropshire Ministers who in the same year signed the declaration against Toleration. Jephcott was Head Master of the Bridgnorth Grammar School, and probably held Oldbury with his mastership. He appears to have belonged to a scholastic family, as Calamy mentions a Jonathan Jephcott who was also a Schoolmaster, and held the Living of Swaffham. There was also a John Jephcott, who was Master of Evesham School. Hugh (or Hugo) Stackhouse, (Rector from 1728 to 1743) was a scholar of some eminence, who founded the Stackhouse Library in Bridgnorth. He had held the Living of St. Mary Magdalene's, Bridgnorth, since 1726, and continued to hold the two Livings jointly till his death. He was also Master of Bridgnorth Grammar School. Thomas Littleton (Rector from 1743 to 1793) had held the Living of St. Leonard's, Bridgnorth, for ten years before his appointment to Oldbury, and continued to hold the two Livings jointly till his death. Thomas Moses Lyster (1793—1821) was a younger son of the ancient Shropshire family of Lyster of Rowton Castle, whose father represented the County in Parliament until his death. Mr. Lyster held the Livings of Billingsley and Neenton as well as that of Oldbury. He lived at Oldbury, and "with the consent of his diocesan, he at a very considerable expense added, embellished, and improved the old lowly habitation of the Rectors of Oldbury which he made a most desirable residence, without laying any part of the charge upon the future Incumbent." (Obituary notice in the Gentleman's Magazine, May, 1821.) He was a County Magistrate and "a scholar of great reading." About the appointment of his successor, Mr. Thomas Dethick (1822—1834) a curious story is told. A Mr. Cox was Rector of St.

Leonard's, Bridgnorth, at the time of Mr. Lyster's death. He had the reputation of being a Methodist,—a name which indicated religious zeal rather than any special party views. Mr. Dethick, a man of less energetic type, was Rector of St. Mary s. It was said that people attended St. Leonard's on Sunday morning to be stirred up, and St. Mary's in the afternoon to be soothed. When the Living of Oldbury became vacant, each of the two Bridgnorth Rectors desired to obtain this additional preferment. Mr. Cox went up to London on the outside of the coach, and had to change his clothes, before calling on the Lord Chancellor to ask for the Living. Mr. Dethick, being inside the same coach, no change of clothes was necessary in his case. He called on the Lord Chancellor at once, obtained a promise of the Living and, as he came out of the Lord Chancellor's house, met Mr. Cox coming in on the same errand. Such is the story, but as Mr. Dethick was not instituted until 13 months after the death of Mr. Lyster, its truth must be regarded as very doubtful. That such a story should have been circulated and believed is not without its significance as to the state of the Church at the time. It would seem that Mr. Dethick continued to live in Bridgnorth until the last few years of his life, when his handwriting shews that he must have become very feeble, the Curate, John Fearnall, inhabiting Oldbury Rectory. John Purton (1834—1883) belonged to an old Shropshire family, some members of which had lived in the Parish since about 1684. He further enlarged the Rectory and as has already been mentioned, almost entirely rebuilt the Church. He was a Prebendary of Hereford and Rural Dean of Stottesden. The present Rector, John Preston Wright, was appointed in 1883, and in 1905 became Rural Dean of Bridgnorth. In his time, the Church was re-seated and panelled in oak, and carved oak pulpit, Clergy desks and Lectern erected in memory of the late Rector.

There are wall tablets within the Church to the Rev. Joseph and Mrs. Woolley and to the Rev. Thomas and Mrs. Dethick, and one on the outside wall of the chancel to the Rev. T. M. Lyster.

The patronage of the Rectory was vested in the Abbot and Convent of Shrewsbury from the first foundation of the Church until the dissolution of the Abbey. In 1538, Katherine Blount, widow, and Hill Blount, presented, in 1554, Robert Poynes, gent., and in 1560, Humfrey Butler,—all as grantees of Shrewsbury Abbey. In 1580, the patronage passed into the hands of the Crown, and since that time the Crown has presented to the Living.

The Church Goods return of Chalices and Bells, made 2 June, 1553, has this entry:—

"OLDBURY. Three bells of accord', a chalice of sylver wt a patent p'cell gilt."

The Religious Census of the Province of Canterbury made in 1676, shows that there were then in Oldbury (in Stottesden Deanery) 80 conformists, and no papists or nonconformists. All these were "inhabitants above the age of 16." The population of Oldbury would probably be at that time about 120.

The Parish Register Abstract, 1831, contains the following account of these Registers:—"Oldbury R., No. 1, Bap., Bur., 1583—1812; Mar., 1583—1753. No. 2, Marr., 1754—1812."

The first register is contained in a parchment-covered volume with flap, measuring 14½ inches by 5. It is evidently made up of several volumes of different sizes bound together. The first seven leaves are of paper, with a watermark containing the letters G.R. These leaves are the full size of the volume. Six of these seven leaves are blank; one, the fourth in order, has some entries of miscellaneous matters of the years 1577 to 1593. Then follow fourteen leaves of parchment, the full width of the book, but only 10 inches high, the height of the page being made up by fourteen small leaves of paper, all blank, with the exception of one on which there is a recent entry. The entries on the fourteen parchment leaves date from 1582 to 1677 (inclusive). Three inches at the bottom of the tenth leaf have been cut out, and the entries at the top of the further side of the leaf have been scratched out with a knife, thus leaving a gap between 1649 and 1653. Some of the fourteen short parchment leaves have been injured by damp, so that a very few of the entries on several of the pages are almost undecipherable. The entries for the year 1641, coming at the bottom of a page are entirely washed out. From the appearance of the page, it is not improbable that this was done intentionally. Following the fourteen short leaves, there is a very small leaf of thin parchment, much injured and defaced. Then follow five leaves of parchment 13¼ inches high and not quite the full width of the book. The first page of these five leaves is much defaced, the last is almost absolutely illegible. It is covered with writing in various hands and in all directions, crossed and re-crossed. The entries on these five leaves date from 1695 to 1698. The remainder of the book consists of twenty-eight leaves of parchment, the full size of the volume, and containing entries of births, deaths and marriages to the year 1812, interspersed among which are miscellaneous entries which come down to a more recent date. The earlier entries on these twenty-eight leaves overlap those of the preceding leaves, and contain entries for the missing years from 1695 to 1698.

The following unusual Christian names occur:—Male—Josephus, Crispian, Ichabod, Amram, Darias, Silvanus; Female—Cecilœ, Sisly, Ambrocia, Petranellah, Avis, Gwenthean, Elianor, Mellone, Grisagon alias Grisell. (This last name,—variously spelt, Grizell, Grizil, Grissell, and Grizald, appears with some frequency).

The first entry refers to the family of Oldbury, a name which is found variously spelt (and sometimes in the form "Westwood alias Oldbury") throughout the Register until 1739. Among the Blakeway MSS. there is a portion of a pedigree of the Oldbury family (too confused and fragmentary to be of any use). After the name of Thomas Oldbury, who was buried at Quatford (?) in 1725, are these words,—"his family being upwards of 700 years standing in this Parish." If these words are to be understood literally, the Oldbury family must have been in the neighbourhood before the Norman Conquest. At the foot of the pedigree is this curious pencil note (undated):—"The fam. of Oldbury is of great antiquity; but all their ancient writings are lost thro' the following accident. The township of Erdington having a law suit at Shrewsbury (70 or 80 years)* all the writings in the Parish Chest of Quatford were taken there: on being produced in court, many of them written in the ancient hand, were found to have no relation to the cause; but the judge and counsel said they were of great consequence, being the property of a family of the name of Westwood alias Oldbury, and directed the man who brought them, one Phillips, to take them back with great care. But Phillips, either from malice or some unknown cause, destroyed them all."

The miscellaneous entries are of some interest. On p. 18, there is a curious entry about the custom of "Easter Drinking," dated "Easterday, Anno Dom., 1686." This entry has been made more difficult to read by having been inked over at some later date. The contraction which is printed in brackets looks like Yr, which would have no intelligible meaning. The conjectural emendation Qr might stand for a quarter of a hundred. It is in favour of this reading that the number 25 could be equally divided among the five signatories of the memorandum who admit their joint liability to provide materials for the feast. The word "phrayes," is puzzling, but it is probably only another form of Froise, which is defined in Nares' Glossary as "a sort of pancake with slices of bacon in it." The New English Dictionary gives the variant spellings Fraise and Frayse (which could be phonetically identical with Phrayes) with a reference to Miss Jackson's Shropshire Word-book, 1879.

It only remains to add that the Registers were copied by Mr. T. R. Horton, and collated by Miss Auden, and the proofs compared with the original Registers, and seen through the press by the present Rector.

Church Preen.

Church Preen Registers.

Church Preen, anciently Preen Magna, or Great Preen, is a parish and village, situate eleven miles south-east from Shrewsbury and six miles south-west from Much Wenlock, in the Hundred of Condover, rural-deanery of Church Stretton, archdeaconry of Ludlow, and diocese of Hereford. It lies mainly upon a slope, and its high grounds command some beautiful views. Its area is 1,174 acres. The population in 1801 was 84; in 1831, 75; in 1841, 101; and in 1901, 113.

Church Preen must not be confused with Holt Preen, which is a hamlet in Cardington parish, although combined Church Preen and Holt Preen form the Preen estate.

The name may indicate British origin, but the early history of the parish is obscure. At the time of the Domesday Survey Preene was one of nineteen Shropshire manors held under Earl Roger by Helgot, one of his Norman followers, and lord of Castle Holgate. It was a manor of three hides, two of which were held of Helgot by Richard (who is believed to be Richard de Belmeis, afterwards Sheriff of Shropshire), and were afterwards known as Great Preen or Church Preen; whilst the remaining hide was held of Helgot by Godebold, and was known as Preen Curtes, Holt Preen, or Little Preen (in Cardington parish). Shortly afterwards Church Preen was held, probably by grant of Richard de Belmeis, by the Priory of Wenlock under the lords of Holgate (as seigneural lords), and a small Priory was founded here, subject to Wenlock. At what period the foundation was effected is uncertain, but at least as early as the thirteenth century, possibly earlier. The Church is of that period, and probably, as at the adjacent village of Hughley, was a re-building on an earlier site.

The Burnells, as Lords of Holgate, held lands and rights in the manor of Church Preen from the 13th century until forfeited in the late 16th century by their heir, Lord Lovel. These lands and rights were vested eventually in the Duke of Norfolk, who sold them to Sir John Dudley, and were by him transferred to the King's Commissioners at the same time as the Prior of Wenlock gave the Priory of Preen into their hands. The latter transaction led to confusion in the matter of whether the Prior of Wenlock or the Prior of Preen had the right to dispose of the property.

The priory estate was purchased in 1533 by Giles Coverte, and in 1560 was purchased from his successor by Humphrey Dickens. In 1749 it was purchased by Miss Elizabeth Price, whose sister Sarah, wife of John Windsor, acquired it by bequest in 1759. In 1826 it was purchased by William Webster, from whose family it came by purchase in 1848 to William Hanbury Sparrow. Almost the whole of Church Preen and Holt Preen is now embraced in the possession of the Sparrow family.

The church, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, is a rectangular building of the 13th century, measuring 70 feet long by 12 feet 8 inches wide. The east window has three lancet lights of equal height. On the north is an interesting lancet, the window being divided from a "low-side" window by a transom. The inside splay stops near the bottom of the window and a recess is made below the window, thus forming on either side a stone seat. There is an interesting piscina, with a ledge within the recess for a credence shelf. A single sedile is formed by a recess running down the wall from the south window of the sanctuary. Two plain diagonal brackets at the north east and south-east junctures of the walls are doubtless for statues of St. John the Baptist and the Virgin. The font, rectangular, with chamfered corners, is probably contemporary with the church. This is restored to a place within the church, but is not used, a modern and incongruous one having re-placed it. There are two bells in a turret on the west gable, one is of pre-Reformation date, the other bears the inscription "Thomas Rudhall, Gloucester; Founder, 1779." The vestry is modern. Some portions of the screen appear to have existed in the church as late as the middle of the last century.

In the churchyard is a magnificent yew tree, one of the largest in the country.

The priory buildings formerly stood on the south side of the church, and the old shoulder arch doorway which gave access to the church is towards the east end of the church but is now built up. The house was totally destroyed and the modern mansion, designed by Norman Shaw, was built on the site in 1871.

In Salopian Shreds and Patches for 1880 (vol. IV. pages 35, 51), the Rev. Mackenzie Walcott quotes, from the Chronicle of Lanercost, a thirteenth century legend of an anchorite named Emma, who had an oratory near a church of St. John Baptist, situate about six miles from Shrewsbury, and who had a vision of saints ministering at the altar, the whole church being bathed in celestial light; and he seeks to identify this church of St. John Baptist with Preen Church, because of its low-side window at the west end. But the viewing of the vision at the altar from the "low-side" window was an impossibility, and the ground for identification would therefore seem to fail.

The old chalice and paten, now disused, are of Elizabethan date.

The Parish Register Abstract of 1833 gives this account of the Registers:—

"Church Preen P.C. One Book (part paper, part parchment). Bap., Bur., Mar., 1680—1814. The Entries are valued and indexed in a separate book, but apparently perfect. The Parish being small, many years interesting without extract."

The Report of the County Council on Shropshire Parish Documents, issued in 1913, gives the following account of the Registers of Church Preen:—

"General Register at one end of the Book, from 1681 to 1753, and at the other end from 1695—1767 (on parchment).

(NOTE.—It will be noticed that the dates overlap).

Register of Baptisms and Burials, 1754—1813 (on paper).
" " Banns and Marriages, 1754—1812 (on paper).

(NOTE.—These first three Registers are now bound up in one cover.)"

For many of the historical facts given here, we are indebted to the "History of Church Preen," by the late Mr. Arthur Sparrow, F.S.A.

It only remains to add that the Register was transcribed by the Rev. R. Jowett Burton, sometime Incumbent of Church Preen, and collated by Mr. T. R. Bowen, and it is now printed with the permission of the former and present Incumbents.

Badger.

Badger Registers.

BADGER is a village and parish on the Shropshire border of Staffordshire, 6 miles from Shifnal, 10 from Wolverhampton and 6 from Bridgnorth.

The parish is bounded by that of Beckbury on the north, Patshall on the east, Worfield on the south, and Stockton on the west. It is in the Hundred of Brimstree. Badger was formerly in the Diocese of Hereford, Archdeaconry of Ludlow, and Rural Deanery of Bridgnorth, being within the old Liberties of Wenlock, as part of the possessions of the Saxon Abbey of St. Milburgh.

This arrangement was changed in 1905, when Beckbury and Badger were placed in the Diocese of Lichfield and Archdeaconry of Salop, and Rural Deanery of Shifnal. Badger Dingle, well known for its picturesqueness and interesting plants, forms the boundary of one side of the parish. The area of the parish is about 920 acres, and the population in 1911 was 150.

The anomalous position of Badger and Beckbury as a peninsula of the Diocese of Hereford, surrounded on three sides by that of Lichfield, probably goes to show that they were part of the Kingdom of the West Hecani, a Sub Kingdom of Mercia, which, in the 7th century, was ruled by Merewald, a son of Penda, and father of Milburgh, the first Abbess of Wenlock. The two manors were among the early possessions of the Abbey, probably from its foundation.

Milburgh died at Much Wenlock about 722, leaving a memory of wise administration of her wide lands. Her foundation suffered at the hands of the Danes, but was refounded shortly before the Conquest by Leofric, Earl of Mercia, and re-founded again as a Cluniac House, or perhaps, rather transferred to Clugny, by Roger de Montgomery.

Domesday passes over the ecclesiastical possessions in Badger, probably on account of their being free from Danegeld, and only mentions a half-hide held there under the Barons of Richard's Castle. The passage runs thus: "Osbern holds of Earl Roger Beglesovre and Robert of him, Brunibt held it and was a free man. Here is half a hide geldable. There is arable land for two ox teams. In demesne is one ox-team and three bordars have one ox-team. There is a wood that will fatten thirty swine. It was worth 7s., now it is 10s." The manor was then in the Hundred of Alnodestreu, but about the time of Henry I. it formed part of the then new Hundred of Brimstree, and in the early 13th century it was placed in the Franchise of Wenlock.

The manor continued under the divided tenure of the Prior and the Baron. Osbern fitz Hugh, the grandson of Osbern fitz Richard, the Domesday Baron, made over his share of Badger to Guy le Strange, with whose family the overlordship remained for several generations, while from 1174 the tenant-in-fee under both Prior and Baron, was of the family of Philip fitz Stephen, whose descendants took the name of De Badger. They also held Ackleton in Worfield parish, and were men of considerable note. Another family of De Badger held Brockton, near Sutton Madoc, whose ancestor, William de Badger, seems to have sold his land at Badger in 1174 to Philip fitz Stephen.

The name of the place, anciently written Bagsore, seems to be derived from "over" a bank or slope, and either the possessive form of the Saxon word for beeches, Becen, or perhaps that for brook, Beccen. Either derivation is applicable to its situation. The mention of pannage for 30 swine in 1086, suggests the former. As already mentioned, the manor was held by a family, who took their name from the place, but there were other families of De Badger, beside the owners of the manor. Roger de Badger, of Badger, early in the 13th century, gave 10s. from Badger Mill to the Priory Kitchen of Wenlock, and a rent of 5s. in the Lye to Lilleshall Abbey.

In 1434 the Petyt family possessed the advowson and a moiety of the estate. Richard Petyt was at Badger in 1421. He was followed by John Petyt, who died in 1415, when Thomas Petyt succeeded to Badger, and Henry succeeded him. In 1502—1507 a record exists of fealty being acknowledged to the Prior of Wenlock, to whom was due a quit-rent of £1 a year and attendance at the Prior's Hundred Court at Bourton, and a heriot on the death of any tenant. The money payment represented the three quarters of wheat and three of oats, which was the early rent. After the Dissolution of Wenlock Priory, the Lords of Badger paid £1 14s. as a quit-rent to the Crown.

Henry Petyt, according to the Herald's Visitation of 1623, left a daughter Dorothy, who married John, one of the many children of Thomas Kynnersley, of Loxley, co. Staffs., who had married her widowed mother as his second wife. John died in 1514. His son and grandson are described as of Loxley and Badger, but his great grandson, Francis, was of Badger only. Francis' son, Thomas, was High Sheriff of Salop in 1654. The estate continued with the Kynnersleys for several generations. The present Hall stables bear the date 1698. Thomas' grandson, John, was Sheriff in 1721. He died in 1750, and was succeeded by his brother Clement, on whose death in 1758, Badger reverted to the elder line of the family. (The Kynnersleys of Leighton were a younger branch.) Clement Kynnersley, of Loxley, who died 1815, the last of the elder branch, sold Badger about 1775 to the trustees of Isaac Hawkins Browne, the only son of Isaac Hawkins Browne, barrister-at-law, M.P. for Wenlock, who wrote poems, much esteemed in their day. He died in 1760, when his son was a boy of 15. Isaac, the younger, was M.P. for Bridgnorth. He practically built the present house and laid out the grounds of Badger Hall. He was Sheriff of Salop in 1783, and lived till 1818. He had no children, and left Badger to his cousin, Robert Cheney, son of his aunt, Anne Hawkins, wife of Edward Cheney. Robert was succeeded by his eldest son, Robert Henry Cheney, Sheriff in 1851, who was followed by his brother Edward, from whom the estate passed to Col. Capel Cure, his nephew, who, dying in 1896, was followed by his nephew, the present owner.

The Church, dedicated to St. Giles, the patron saint of hunters, was wholly re-built in 1833, but its foundation goes back to at least the 12th century, and the base of the tower is old.

The present edifice is a plain rectangular building with a western tower, built in the Gothic style of the early 19th century A north chapel was added in 1886, which is divided from the Church chancel by a fine 15th century screen, preserved from the old Church. There are several interesting monuments, by Chantrey, Flaxman and Gibson, and two pictures placed there by Colonel Capel Cure, copies of Titian and Guido. The Church was re-seated with oak fittings in 1887. The font is a modern copy of the one in St. Bride's, Fleet Street, London.

In the Churchyard stand the steps and shaft of the village cross, brought there from its original site, some 100 yards away. The parish, in 1676, had a population of 45 persons over 16, perhaps 120 altogether, whilst at Beckbury there were 25. There were no Nonconformists or Roman Catholics in either parish. In 1861, all the parish was owned by the Squire, except 180 acres belonging to Miss Alice Green.

In the King's Books the Rectory was valued at £4 13s. 4d., and it was in Wenlock Deanery. The patronage of the living is vested in the Crown, which presents on the nomination of the lord of the manor for the time being. In pre-Reformation days it was, in the same way, in the gift of the lord of the manor, who presented his nominee to the Prior, who presented him to the Bishop for institution. The Priory received 3s. 4d. a year from the living of Badger.

The first two pages of the book are taken up with three certificates dated 1701, 1703 and 1707, certifying to the Overseers of the Poor of Wolverhampton that Robert Bowlas, then living at "Billson in the p'ish of Wolverhampton," was an inhabitant of Badger; another to the overseers of the parish of Birmingham acknowledging that Nathaniell Warter belonged to Badger, and the third to Enoch (Enville) acknowledging William Bradney. Then come six blank leaves, after which the Churchwardens' accounts begin. They are carefully kept and contain several interesting items of expenditure. We gather from the list of those contributing to the expenses of the parish that Thomas Kinnersley died in 1681, leaving his widow in charge of the estate, as Mrs. Kinnersley is rated for the "Demesnes" and the mill till 1690, when John Kinnersley takes her place. A sidesman is first mentioned in 1687, and a supervisor of the highways in 1693. From that time onwards there is frequent mention of the getting stone to mend the ways.

The pound seemed to constantly need repairing and the lock of the steeple was mended more than once. In 1684, 6d. was paid "for three urchins that were killed within this p'ish." Parchment was bought occasionally, and the putting in the copy of the register cost 2/6 a year. The bells had money spent on them, and in 1685, 5/4 was paid for new 'bell reps,' and for putting them in and getting the bells in order. The following year 8/11 was spent on "three new locks and mending one old one, for a new paire of hinges and repairing the old ones for the Church Coffers." The Church roof seems to have frequently needed repair, and in 1686, 300 shingles were bought, and that same year the stocks were mended. Washing the surplice generally cost 1/- a year, and in 1687 a new one was bought, which cost £1. In 1689, 7/- was paid to William

Weetwicke for "52 foote of boards to make barrs for ye steeple windows." There is constant mention of money given to distressed travellers, and we have an echo of history in the purchase of special prayers and thanksgivings. In 1688 there is the thanksgiving for the birth of a prince (the old Pretender), and later in the same accounts, the prayer for King William and Queen Mary. In 1689, 1/- was paid for a book of prayers for the 3rd Wednesday in every month "during ye warr," and the next year prayers for the King and his Army in Ireland.'

Holy Communion was always celebrated at Christmas, Easter, and Whitsuntide, and other days are mentioned occasionally: New Year's Day, Trinity Sunday and the Feast of St. Michael are among these.

The Visitations were held at Ludlow, Church Stretton, Bishop's Castle (which meant two days away and two nights), and sometimes at Wenlock. The Churchwarden and Sidesman attended them. The parish clerk, in 1691, received 15/- a year, and in 1705 the sum was still the same. Later it rose to 25/-. The Church wall needed mending occasionally, and the Church stile, and the Church wicket had a new post. After 1696 come entries of signing at the Court at Brockton, and it seems as if the state of the highways was reported at the Court Leet.

There are frequent journeys to Wenlock, generally charged at 1/6 a time, but one "on parish bussinesse" cost 11/-.

In 1701, two mats and a boss for the desk and pulpit cost 11d., and John Childe was rewarded for a fox-head. In 1702, the cleaning of the Church plate is mentioned, and an assessment for houses and windows. In 1705, the parish spent 3/8 on "the Constable's charges in takeinge a man before the Justice upon suspicion of felony," and mention occurs of the "presse," i.e., the "press-gang" of cruel memory. In 1709, some paving was done in the Church and Churchyard, and 9d. was spent on "three stumps to put under the seats." That year money was spent on 30 lbs. of whiting and a "paile of milke," and £7 18s. was given "for painting the Church and a frame for the queen's arms." In 1710, joiner's work was done "about the men's seats" to the cost of £1 2s. 6d., and 10/- expended in fetching stone "to repaire the ways in Badger.

The next pages now remaining begin with 1792, Mr. Richard Bayley being Churchwarden, and Isaac Hawkins Browne, squire. There are several noticeable changes. The Church Lewne or Loan is not assessed on the quantity of land but on its estimated rental. The list is:—

REGISTERS.

The Parish Register Abstract of 1831 gives this account of the Registers:—"Badger R., No. I., Bap., Bur., 1662—1812; Marr., 1662—1756 (until 1713 a transcript of an old Register not now in existence). Nos. II., III., Marr., 1757—1812."

Shropshire Parish Documents, issued by the Salop County Council in October, 1903, gives this information:—"General Register, 1713—1754, then Baptisms and Burials only to 1812 (with copies of certain entries from a previous Register, the whereabouts of which is unknown), Register of Marriages, 1757—1808, ditto, 1808—1812; Churchwardens' Account Book, 1679 (in very bad condition)."

The earliest Volume is a book of 24 parchment leaves, in a parchment cover (which is a portion of a Lease dated circa 1680 from Henry Wollaston to Samuel Toy, of a water corn mill and a messuage called the Hay-house), size 13 inches by 4½ inches. On the cover is written "Badger Register." It is in various handwritings, and is in good condition. On the first page are nine entries dated 1662, 1671, 1672, 1677, and 1681, which were transcribed in 1700 from an old Register now lost. The Volume really extends from 1713 to 1812, marriages to 1758.

Fortunately the transcripts of the lost Register from 1660 are preserved at Hereford, and these we are enabled to give to 1713,—excepting for the year 1661, which is missing. These additional forty-three years add greatly to the interest and value of the Register.

Volume II. contains Marriages from 1757 to 1808,—but there were only 22 marriages in these fifty-one years, and Banns from 1840 to 1862. It is a printed paper book, 15 inches by 9½ inches, in a vellum cover, and has three entries on each page. On the cover is written "Marriages 1757 to 1808, and Banns of Marriage published from the year 1840."

Volume III. contains marriages from 1800 to 1812, but only 12 in these years. It is a printed paper book, 14½ inches by 9½ inches, in a vellum cover with flap, and has four entries on each page. On the cover is written "Marriages 1800 to 1812." Volume IV. contains 14 entries of "Marriages from 1813 to 1836." It is a paper book 15¼ inches by 10 inches, in a parchment cover, and contains 300 forms, three on each page.

The Register does not contain many entries of interest. The most important are those relating to the Kynnersley family. Anthony, buried in 1662, was son of Thomas the High Sheriff of 1654, and Francis, buried in 1671, his grandson. Thomas himself, died in 1680, and his widow, Elizabeth in 1691. John Kynnersley, his grandson, Sheriff in 1721, died in March, 1756, and Clement his brother and successor, in 1758. The Kynnersleys of Cleobury North and Wrickton were descended from Edward, son of Thomas, and grandson of John Kynnersley and Dorothy Petyt. Edward's daughter, Dorothy, married Richard Hide of Hopton Wafers, and was probably the mother of Hercules Hide married at Badger in 1664 to Joan Moseley, as her eldest brother bore the same unusual name. Hercules Kynnersley was a member of one the Puritan "classes" of Shropshire in 1654. Sir William Whitmore, who bought Apley, Sheriff in 1656, married Margaret, daughter of Rowland Moseley of Lancashire, and the Whitbrooke family of Bridgnorth and Worfield were connected with the Moseleys (of the Mere, co. Staffs.), by the marriage of Margaret Whitbrooke and Nicholas Moseley. Possibly Joan was connected with one or other of these.

John Brodhurst, the Rector, had children baptized at Badger in 1660, 1663, and 1668, and there are entries between 1665 and 1677 of a family of Browne, who possibly are of the same stock as the 18th century squire, as tradition says he came of a family that had previously held property in the neighbourhood of Badger. There was a family of Browne of Morfe, whose pedigree for five generations is given in the copy of the Herald's Visitation of 1623, in the Shrewsbury Schools' Library, possibly as leading down to Alice, daughter and heiress of John Browne of Worfield, who, in the 15th century, married Richard Hussey. In 1684, the long entry of the baptism of Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Leighton and his wife Elizabeth Kynnersley of Wrickton, grand-daughter of Thomas Kynnersley of Badger, shows the link between the Leighton and Kynnersley families through which the manor of Leighton under-the -Wrekin came to the latter. Three other daughters of Richard Leighton were baptized at Badger, but Sarah, the second daughter, who (in 1708) married her cousin Thomas Kynnersley of Wrickton, is not mentioned. The four recorded in the Badger Register are Elizabeth, who married John Stanier of Cosford, Margaret, wife of Thomas More of Millichope, and Lettice, wife of Robert Davison of the Brand, while Mary, apparently died young.

The family of White, settled here in the early 18th century, was also of Turl's Hill, in the parish of Sedgley, and of Alscot, Worfield, where they held copyhold lands.

The Taylors were of Badger Heath, where the pleasant 18th century house still stands. Badger Farm, another pleasant house, bears the date 1750.

Of Clergy other than the Rectors, we have mentioned Mr. Jeremy Taylor, Vicar of Madeley (1715); the Rev. Thomas Baker, of Much Wenlock, Clerk (1720); John Collier, Clerk (1729—1737); William Leake, Curate (1787—1792); Richard Stanley, Curate of Boninghall (1758); Robert Daubrie (1758); J. Fayle, Rector of Beckbury (1772); T. Lawrence, Clerk (1778); and G. Butt, Rector of Stanford, Worcestershire (1783)—the father of Mrs. Sherwood, the well-known writer.

The baptisms of the children of William Ferriday, Esq., and Mary his wife, between 1763 and 1775, seems to show that the Hall was let while its owners were non-resident, but we have no clue given as to who the tenant was. John Smitheman, of Little Wenlock, Sheriff of Salop in 1761, who rented West Coppice from Walter Michael Moseley, married Margaret Ferriday, and this perhaps gives the connection with the neighbourhood.

Among others to whom a prefix is given in the 18th and 19th centuries are: Mr. Richard Taylor, senr.; Mr. Wm. Phillips and Mrs. Sarah Gears of Astley Abbotts; Mr. Benjamin Poole of Stockton, late of Worfield, and Mrs. Mary Taylor; Mr. Obadiah Tedstill; Mr. Richard Taylor, junior, and Mrs. Jane Hawkins Browne, mother of the squire. She was left a widow in 1760. She was a niece of Bishop Trimnel, and her father-in-law was Vicar of Burton-on-Trent. Her daughter-in-law, Henrietta, buried in 1802, was daughter of Edward Hay, Governor of Barbadoes. She married in 1788, Isaac Hawkins Browne, as his first wife. His second, whom he married in 1805, was Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Boddington, of Clapton. Isaac Hawkins Browne (1705—1760), wit and poet, and his son of the same name (1745—1818), essayist, are both remembered in the Dictionary of National Biography (vol. vii, pp. 47—48).

HARTSHORNE'S CHARITY.

The Rev. Richard Corbet Hartshorne, Rector of Badger, gave in his lifetime £5, and by his Will dated 28th May, 1752, bequeathed £5 more, to the poor of the parish of Badger. And the Rev. Thomas Hartshorne, Rector of Badger, shortly before his death, which happened on 10th December, 1779, gave £10 more to the use of the poor of Badger for ever. At a Vestry Meeting it was agreed that these sums should be paid to Isaac Hawkins Browne, Esq., who consented to give a rent-charge of twenty shillings per annum, to be issuing out of a messuage in Badger. Accordingly, by Indenture of Bargain and Sale, dated 31st January, 1783, and enrolled in Chancery on 17th March, 1783, and made between Isaac Hawkins Browne, of Badger, Esq., of the one part, and James Chelsum, D.D., Rector of Badger, William Taylor of Bridgnorth, gent., William Hardwick, William Bacon, Daniel Onions, John Wenlock,

Richard Bayley and John Child, all of Badger, farmers, of the other part, the said Isaac Hawkins Browne did give, grant, bargain and sell, One Annuity or yearly Rent-Charge of twenty shillings to be yearly payable and issuing out of All that ancient Messuage or Tenement and Garden, with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, situate and being in the town of Badger aforesaid, and which was formerly the estate and inheritance of Clement Kynnersley, esquire, and lately purchased by the said Isaac Hawkins Browne of and from the said Clement Kynnersley, and was formerly in the possession of Obadiah Tetstall, late of William Tetstall, and was then in the possession of Richard Perks; the said annuity or rent-charge to be paid on the 25th day of December yearly, with power of distress in case of default for forty days: To hold the said annuity or yearly rent-charge to the parties of the second part and their heirs: Upon trust that they shall every year pay the same, within thirty days after the receipt thereof, to the Churchwarden and Overseer of the poor of the said parish of Badger, to be by them applied to the use of the poor of the said parish, to be distributed either in bread or in any other manner to such deserving objects as the parties of the second part, or any five of them, their heirs or assigns, should direct or appoint. Proviso that when the number of Trustees be reduced to five, such five survivors shall grant and assign the said annuity or rent-charge to such number of freeholders or substantial inhabitants of Badger as they should judge proper, to them and their heirs, upon the Trusts before mentioned, so that there may be a perpetual succession of fit persons to execute the said Trusts. This Deed was signed by all the parties, except Dr Chelsum and William Bayley. In 1840 the premises charged consisted of two houses, worth about £3 a year each, and the rent-charge was received by the Rector from the agent of Mrs. Isaac Hawkins Browne, and by him distributed among the poor at Christmas (See the Charity Commissioners' Report for Shropshire, pages 299—300.)

It remains only to say that the copy of the Bishop's Transcripts at Hereford was procured at the cost of the Rev. A. W. Dix the present Rector, to whom the thanks of the parish are due.

The existing Registers were copied by Mr T. R. Horton, and collated by the Rev. W. G. D. Fletcher, who has also seen them through the press. They are now printed by the kind permission of the present Rector of Badger.

Burford Registers.

The Parish Register Books of Burford, from their commencement in 1558 to 1812, are comprised in four volumes, as follows :—

Vol. I., 1558 to 1756. Parchment cover, parchment leaves, size 16 inches by 6 inches, generally in good condition ; contains entries of Baptisms, Marriages and Burials, with the following gaps : 1576 one entry, 1577 none, 1578 three, 1580 one, 1581 three, 1582 one, 1583 none, 1584 none.

" THE REGISTER BOOKE OF THE PARISHE OF BURFORDE, newly written " Anno Dom., 1598. FRANCIS KERIE, Parson."

The following by the Revd. Prebendary James Wayland Joyce, the Rector, 1843—1887 :—

VOL. I.

" This book passed from the clergy to the Mission Registrar of that " hypocritical miscreant Oliver Cromwell, on the 1st day of October, " 1653, under the hand of Edward Whichcott, Justice of the Peace. The " Book remained with those usurpers, who made entries therein, until " the 8th day of November, 1660, when it was delivered back to the " Church and given by Mr. Thomas Waties to John Cornwall, Church- " warden, and Thomas Clent, Minister of Burford."

Vol. II., 1757 to 1812. Bound in rough brown leather, parchment leaves, size 12½ inches by 8 inches. Several blank pages and several erased, apparently to enter other notices, some cut out at the end. Baptisms and Burials only. Induction of Revd. Edward Green in 1814.

Vol. III., 1754 to 1797. Bound in white parchment, printed forms. Marriages only.

Vol. IV., 1797 to 1812. Half bound in marble paper, printed forms. Marriages only. Book not completed.

Burford is a parish in the extreme South of Shropshire, and divided from Worcestershire by the River Teme. It is in the Diocese of Hereford, and is divided into eight Townships : Boraston, Nash, Tilsop, Weston, Wetmore (or Oughtmore), Whitton & Greet (now formed into a separate parish).

It takes its name from the two Saxon words, Bur (a town), and Ford (a ford), and at the ancient ford which adjoins the grounds of the Castle of the Cornwalls the three Counties (including Herefordshire) meet together.

The area of the Parish is 6,672 acres, and the population in 1861 was 1,121; in 1871, 1,215; in 1881, 1,335; in 1891, 1,183; in 1901, 1,092; in 1911, 1,152. It is somewhat remarkable how little the population has changed in the 50 years from 1861 to 1911.

In Saxon times it had enough arable land to employ 29 ox teams—11 Mills and a wood which would fatten 100 swine.

In Domesday we read: "Osbern fitz Richard holds Burford of the King—Richard his father held it."

This Richard was one of the favourites of Edward the Confessor, and is believed to have been the builder of Richard's Castle, near Ludlow.

In 1087, Richard's son Osbern was Lord of Burford until 1117, and by the marriage, about 1100, of his son Hugh to Eustachia de Saye, it passed to that family, but before 1211 the Lordship of Burford was conveyed to the Mortimers by the marriage of Margaret de Saye, who died in 1242. In 1308 Margaret de Mortimer married Geoffry de Cornwall, whose descendants still represent that family, though Burford has passed into other hands.

The history of Burford Church and the family history of the Cornwalls have been exhaustively treated by Dr. Cranage, Lord Liverpool, and the Revd. Compton Reade (to whose works our readers can refer for further information) rather than extend the length of the present preface.

In the 17th century Burford must have been a centre of social good fellowship and hospitality. Perhaps the great family of Cornwall may have known how to gather in its parish and neighbourhood those whose names are still household words among us. Of Esquires we find Charlton, Cecil, Cooke, Edwards, Hill, Foxe, Reade, Smyth, Spencer, Whichcote, Wharncombe; of "Mr." and "Gent.": Annesley, Blunt, Barneby, Bury, Jukes, Beaumont, Tomson, Priseley, Davies, Nudigate, Bannister, Pennell, Fowler, Hackluyt, Hudson, Bright, Lyster, Luddington, Tattswell, Lane, Barker, Chambers, Hall, Inwood, Waties, Starey, Prizeley, Mayland, Fowler, Dyke, Wathen, are a few among the many whose names are recorded in these Parish Registers, where high and low, rich and poor, can be traced along their well-worn pages, but Starey, of the Hem, is the only owner who can boast that he still possesses the home of his ancestors.

Among the trades we find rope-makers, weavers, hatters, dyars, shoemakers, tailers, surgeons.

Among uncommon Christian names are Amphilis, Burgh, Lettesse, Prudentia, Bydeawhile, Magdalen, Fabian, Hollandina, Armsdad, Fortunatus, Jeremius, Guilbert.

Of Burford House a few stones, a chimney and fireplace on its western side, are all that is now visible of the ancient Castle of the Barons of Burford. Francis Cornwall, the last male owner, is now represented by Colonel Cornwall Legh, of High Legh, Cheshire, the descendant of his only daughter.

Burford House was sold in 1708 to Mr. Bowles, who re-built it, the date on the pipes being W.B. 1733. He bequeathed it to his sister Lady Rushout, whose descendant now owns it.

Boraston Township.

The Chapel.—A blocked doorway in the Nave is the only remnant of a small Norman Church. In 1884, a new Chancel was erected; in 1887, a new western tower took the place of a white-washed brick one of no antiquity. The font is said to have been brought from Buildwas Parish Church.

Adjoining the road opposite the Church are two very picturesque houses of the Stewart period; a third, called Boraston Court House, has been re-placed by a brick building; a barn at the back, with old beams and feather carving, being all that now remains. The Middle House, occupied by Mr. Smallman, whose family have lived in Burford as yeoman farmers for over 300 years, contains many interesting features. The parlour ceilings and the room over it are decorated with plaister devices of lions, stags, or goats, and fleur de lis, probably heraldic, and in another bedroom the hearth stone consists of tiles with patterns almost obliterated, but on one of which can be traced the name "SIR JOHN TALBOT," and his crest or badge, the Talbot dog, four times repeated.

The Lower House has black and white timber gables and a fine stack of red brick Jacobean chimnies. Inside there are three carved wooden lions, rampant, on three separate panels, the original position of which cannot now be ascertained. Watties, Nudigate, Steeper, Mrs. Annesley, Mrs. Katherine Hill, were among the dwellers in Boraston.

Dean Park recalls the name of its early owners, the Dean and Chapter of Worcester, who also possessed considerable property in neighbouring parishes.

Nash Township

The Chapel dates from the 14th century, but modern work has given it a very modern appearance, and the old monuments, if any, have been buried or destroyed. The following extract from the Register tells its own tale:—

1676. "Whereas in the late troubleous times many persons were buried within the Chappell of Nash in the Parish of Burford, though the same were not a legall burying place, and amongst others George Thomson, of Schare House in the Parish of Burford, and whereas Margaret the wife of the said George Thomson, now dead, did in her life time earnestly desire to be at her death interred by her said husband, her request being both pious and natural, I do by these presents give order that she be interred in the said Chappell . . . . . .

HER: HEREFORD." (BISHOP CROFT.)

The principal residence is Court of Hill, built in 1683, by Andrew Hill, his arms impaling those of his wife (Anne, d. of Thomas Powys of Henley, near Ludlow) are carved over the entrance. The house is panelled with oak, and the pictures, China, furniture are all good examples of the taste and judgment of the owner of that period. In 1771, Mr. Hill's cousin, Mrs. Lybbe Powys, visited Court of Hill, and her humorous description of the place is worth recording. "The house stands on a steep "knoll—you look from a vast eminence down on valleys, so sweetly "diversified, then the country rising mountains above mountains almost "reaching the clouds. Behind, the house is bounded by a vast mountain "called Clee Hill, which produces stone, lime, and coal in great abundance. "This rock is dreadfully steep to ascend, but dismally so to descend, tho' "they make nothing of it in their coach or on horseback."

The Hills have lived in Burford Parish as early as the 14th century, and the present representative in the male line is Viscount Hill. The present owner is A. N. Vernon Hill-Lowe, Esq.

Adjoining the churchyard is Nash Court, belonging to the Pardoes—a narrow circuitous lane leads through the townships of Wetmore and Tilsop, and we find the timber dwellings of "Fearne" fast falling into decay (but with its Jacobean fireplace) turned into a barn for cattle. Tilsop and the Hem, the old home of the Stareys, partly destroyed by fire, built by John and Elizabeth Starey, 1682. The Schere (meaning the edge of the parish where it joins Coreley) and Red Ford the former home of the Needhams and the Thomsons. All these are interesting as examples of the dwellings of the yeomen of England in the Stewart times.

Stoke.

Is in the north-west corner of the Parish of Burford, adjoining Whitton and Greet.

In the 15th century Jane, the daughter of William Stoke, of Stoke, married John Foxe. In 1549, George Foxe's father granted him a lease of Stoke, Greet and other farms in Burford, and was buried at Burford in 1587. His heir was his nephew, Edward Foxe, of Ludford, who sold Stoke to Edward Whichcott, Esq., for 1,225*l.*; and Thomas Foxe, great grandson of Edward, sold Greet (adjoining Stoke) to Sir Thomas Edwardes, Bt., for 700*l.*. His initials $\frac{\text{E.}}{\text{T. C.}}$ are still to be seen on the back of a fireplace in the old Manor House, now belonging by descent to Colonel Hope Edwardes.

Elizabeth, the daugher of George Foxe, had married Christopher Whichcote, Esqre., and lived at Stoke. Here were born and baptized at Burford, their ten children. On March 15th, 1609, was baptized their son Benjamin, who became Provost of King's College, Cambridge, one of the University preachers, and on the Restoration after the troublous times, was presented by the Crown to the living of St. Lawrence Jury. He died 1683.

In 1614, was baptized Jeremias, their youngest son, who became Solicitor-General to the Princes Palatine, was created a Baronet in 1660, died 1677, and is the direct ancestor of the present Sir George Whichcote.

In the 18th century the Whichcotes sold Stoke to Thomas Smith, Esqre., a son of the Revd. John Smith, Vicar of Tenbury, and descended from the Smiths of Camden, Gloucestershire. He was Sheriff of Worcestershire, 1714. Sheriff of Shropshire, 1739, and was buried at Burford, 1750, aged 72. His son John died childless, and his daughter, who married Penry Williams, of Pen Bont, Brecon, succeeded to Stoke and considerable estates in Worcestershire, Gloucestershire, and Shropshire. Stoke House is now rented by Mr. Gillam.

The back of Stoke House retains some features of the Whichcote residence. On the front of the house is a dial and the date 1702.

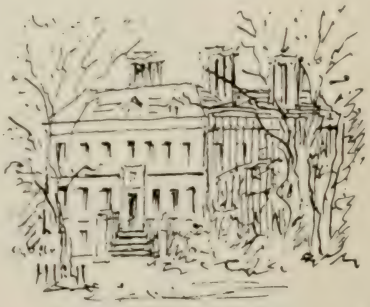
NASH COURT (Pardoe)



COURT OF HILL - 1683 (Andrew Hill)

Whitton Township.

Is on the northern extremity of Burford Parish, and takes its name from the Whittons, its early owners in the 12th century.

Dr. Cranage states that the south doorway of Whitton Chapel is a most interesting variety, as it is probably the rare intermediate step between the Norman period and the dog tooth.

The Nave roof, probably 17th century date, marks the period when the Charltons came to Whitton Court. There are several 17th century houses in Whitton probably or possibly the residences of the numerous Charlton families and their retainers.

In 1610 Robert Charlton bought Whitton from the family of that name. He built in front of the old stone mullioned and timber house a most picturesque gabled brick house, incorporating it with the older one, and marked his advent with the initials R.C. 1611 and R.C. 1635 on two of the gables. The terrace, which retains its old horse block at one end, leads through a porch with an ancient door and arch into a handsome hall, panelled throughout.

In 1682 this hall was decorated by Sir Francis Charlton, 2nd Baronet, with his coat of arms impaling those of his wife Dorothy Bromwich and their initials $\frac{C.}{F.\ D.}$ also a hunting scene over the fireplace and groups of flowers on the splays of the windows. On some carefully preserved panes of glass is scratched with a diamond :—

"Richard Charlton, 16.., Jn. Langton 1650, A Monsieur Richard,
"Terrina despice, Eterna suspice, Thos. Walmsley, May 17—1653."

A parlour adjoins the hall, and double panelling conceals a hiding place. This room was formerly decorated in fresco with a fleur de lis pattern.

Good tapestry adorns the walls of a handsome oak staircase and a large room over the hall.

This distinguished family boasts among its inhabitants of Whitton Sir Job Charlton, the son of Robert, the builder of the house, Speaker of the House of Commons, Judge of the Common Pleas and Chief Justice of Chester and his sister Emma, who married Sir Henry Barnard and left two daughters and coheirs: Emma, who married Sir Josiah Child, and Elizabeth, who married Sir James Brydges, Lord Chandos, and became the mother of the Duke of Chandos and the Honble. Archdeacon Brydges and her descendants include Lord Leigh, Madam Pytts, of Kyre, and the Walcots of Walcot. Sir Job's daughter Dorothy, born at Whitton and baptized at Burford, 1668, became Lady Leighton, and is the ancestress of the present Baronet. Sir Francis, her brother, is the ancestor of General Sir Francis Lloyd, of Aston. Sir Blunden, 3rd and last Baronet (his sons dying in his lifetime) the estate devolved upon his daughter Elizabeth, who married Edmund Lechmere, Esqre., of Hanley Castle. Whitton was sold in 1835 to Mr. Thomas Botfield for 1000*l*. His nephew Mr. Beriah Botfield, sold it in 1857 to Mr. Samuel Mills, of Darlaston, for 20,000*l*, and the Misses Mills are the present worthy possessors of this charming old place.

Notes.

1630. The following curious extract from the Preface to the Parish of Greet is worth repeating as it concerns the Parish of Burford, and is another instance of the confusion of services in 17th century :—

" In the Archives of the Star Chamber is an account of a charge for denying Christian burial to William Foxe, gent., deceased, at Burford, and taking him out of his grave and carrying him to Greete two miles distant on a cart, the Church of Greet being interdicted for Burial. Finally the Parishioners buried him at Greete, and Sir Thomas Cornwall declared they should answer for it in the Star Chamber."

1635 (which see).

Mem. That the 12th day of October, 1635, there was given to the Parish Church of Burford a faire Turkey Carpett of the value of sixe pounds twelve shillings for a coveringe to the Common Table by Mr. Robert Cornwall Sole Executor of the last Will and Testament of Mr. George Cornwaill Merchant of London his naturall brother deceased at Aleppo in Syria the 17th of October, 1633.

In the early half of the 19th Century the ancient chain armour of the Cornwalls hung at the West end of the Church, but time had made it look dirty and dusty, and its place was required for a gallery and (sad to say) it was all taken down and sent to the Village Blacksmith to be beaten up into horse shoes and nails, and the helmet used for carrying ashes. Tradition tells that this armour was worn at Agincourt.

Monuments at Burford Church, 1335 to 1812.

These are of special interest, an almost unbroken series of the Cornwall family for more than 300 years, and in unusually good preservation, although unfortunately, some of them have been removed from their original places.

A stone slab with 2 Cross Flory engraved on it (The crosses are similar to those at Haughmond Abbey to John Fitz Alan and Isabel Mortimer his wife.) I suggest that this stone is in memory of Geoffry de Cornwall and Margaret de Mortimer his wife, who held a 4th part of the Barony of Burford. They were both dead in 1345 (see Close Rolls). This slab was in the centre of the chancel formerly, now placed at the West end of Nave.

1354. On a flat monument in the chancel a lady in 14th century dress with the following inscription :—" ici gist Dame Elizabeth feme' a Mons' Edmond de Cornwaltlle, qui mourit. 1354 " (a widow), the arms of Brampton, of Kinlet, on one side and Cornwall impaling Brampton on the other. This represents Elizabeth, the daughter and coheir of Brian de Brampton, of Kinlet, who married Edmond the elder brother of Geoffry de Cornwall, of Burford. Her husband predeceased her by a few months, which may account for her burial at Burford instead of Kinlet.

1426. Elizabeth, daughter of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster. This monument is thus described in Dingley's MSS., temp., Charles II.

" Elizabeth Duchess of Exeter, who died 4 H. 6 A.D. 1426, and was " interred in this church. Her figure is made lying in her Robes of Purple " ermined with a ducal coronet on her head, her hair dechevell'd of a " golden colour. The arms of her father, ye Duke of Lancaster, being " underneath ye arch, as also again if I mistake not impaled with " Cornewall, having ye Inscription following underneath in Roman " capital letters according as I have touched it opposite ye following leafe " upon the place where I find it lately beautified and refreshed, A.D., " 1683."

Inscription.

" Here lyeth the body of the most noble Princess Elizabeth, daughter " of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, own sister to Henry 4th, wife of " John Holland, Earle of Huntingdon and Duke of Exeter, after whose " death she married John Cornewayle, Kt. of the Garter and Lord " Fanhope, and died in the 4th year of the reign of Henry VI., 1426."

Sir John Cornwall, second husband of the Princess Elizabeth, was sometimes called GREEN CORNWALL, from the colour of the sea on which he was born, viz., in the Bay of St. Michael's Mount, washing the county of Cornwall, at which time his parent, the Duke of Britain's niece, was transmitted into England in order to be brought to bed among his relations here. Her husband, Sir John, being at that time engaged in the wars of Britany, yet she being delivered in the ship he was christened John in the parish church of Markenshawe, near the sea, called Mount Michael's Bay. This infant inherited not only the name, but estate and vertues of his father, and which he evidenced in the year 1400 when attending King Henry 4th at the City of York, this worthy Knight and James of Artois being challenged to a Tournament by a French and Italian Knight, came off victor, upon which heroic success King Henry 4 conferred upon him the order of the Garter, and his own sister, according to the inscription in Burford Church where she lyeth, dying before him.

Monument of EDMOND CORNEWALL, from Dingley's His'. of Marble, 1582.

1435, in his father's lifetime. "At the entrance into the chancel "door on the left hand is the repository of the heart of a Cornewall "enclosed in lead and which I saw (now gone) the covering of whose "sepulchre is superscribed in Roman letters—

"O Lord my contrite heart and meeke,
"Do not refuse I Thee beseek.

"O God my soule I do bequeath to rest in Heaven hie,
"And there my corps to be enterr'd where I shall hap to die,
"My heart unto my native soyle for burial I betake,
"My fayth unto my friends I yield, this is the will I make."

The inscription following the distich underneath the figure of a heart, hath this written also in Roman Capitall Letters :—

"HERE LYETH THE HEART OF EDMOND CORNEWAYLE, ESQ., sonne and heyre unto Sr. Rychard Cornewayle of Burford, Kt., who travelling to know forraine countries died at Collenne the xv year of Hen. VI., and willed his servants to bury his body there and to enclose his heart in lead and carry it to Burford to be buried. The sayd Edmond married Elizabeth the elder daughter and one of the heires of Sr. Thomas Barre, Esqre., of Herefordshire and cousin and heir to the Countess of Devonshire, by wch. Elizabeth the sayd Edmond had a son named THOMAS and a daughter named ELIANOR. This Thomas married Elizabeth, daughter and heire of Sr. Rowland Leinthall, of Hampton (Court), Herefordshire, by his wife Dame Lucy, one of the cousins and heires unto the last Lord Grey of Codnor, and had issue by her Sr. Edmond Cornewayle. The daughter ELIANOR, who married SR. HUGH MORTIMER, of CUYRE WYARD, by whom she had one daughter and heire, which was married unto Sr. Thomas West, Kt., ancestor to the Lord de la Ware, now living, who had by her a daughter married to Sr. Edward Guildford, Kt., who had issue by her that most beautiful lady wife unto the valliant Duke of Northumberland, father and mother unto ye noble Ambrose, Earle of Warwick, and to the right excellent Robert Earle of Leicester, and to the Lady Katherine, wife of Henry Lord Hastings, Earle of Huntingdon, and to Lady Mary wife to Sir Henry Sydney, Kt. of ye Garter, by whom he had issue Sr. Philip Sydney, Kt. and Sr. Robert Sydney, created Erle of Leicester by King James, and Mary wife to Henry, Earle of Pembroke, by whom he had issue William the late noble Earle of Pembroke, Lord High Steward of ye Household to King Charles, and Philip, now Earle of Pembroke and Montgomery, Lord Chamberlaine to King Charles, An. Dom. 1630.

The aforesaid DAME ELIANOR had to her second husband SR. RICHARD CROFT, KT., of whom by her was descended the Rt. Hon. Sir James Croft, Kt., Comptroler of the Household to Queen Elizabeth. IT HATH been reported the same Dame Elinor so computed had such increase of children that seventeen score and odd people were descended of her bodye before she died.

From Gough's Sepulchral Monuments.

1508. "Life size monument in oak, his head supported by two "angels on a helmet, his hair cropt, armour placed ovals at his shoulders, "hearts at his elbows, at his feet a lion crowned with an iron tongue, "a ledge of oak leaves runs round the chest (i.e., coffin), which is hollow "and empty. At the east end of the tomb the Cornwall Arms between "the whole lengths (i.e., figure) of Edmund, and a female saint holding "an arrow.

"Heare lyeth the body of Edmonde Cornewayle, sonne and heire aparante of Syr Thomas Cornewayle of Burford, Kt., which Edmonde dyed in the yeare of his age xxi in the yeare of Our Lord God, 1508."

1516 (Mytton's MSS.) "Here lyethe Elyzbethe dougtur unto Sir Walter Devroke of Webbeley, Knight of the most noble ordre and Lorde fferres of Chartelay weyche Elyzbethe was wyffe ffirst unto Sir Richard Corbet, Knight of Moreton Tyrytte and after Hys Dyssesse wyff unto Sir Thomas Leyghton of Stretton in le Dale weche Elyzabeth depted owt of this transitory worlde in the yere of owre lorde God, 1516, Whose soule ihu have."

A slab of Lady Leighton engraved: 9 children at her feet 2 coats on either side Corbet with quarterings, Leighton with quarterings impaling Devereux, surrounded by the above legend. She was the mother of Sr. Richard Corbet, Sir Thomas Leighton and Anne, Ly. Cornwall.

1523 (Cornwall's Collections not now (1913) to be found.) "Here lyeth the body of Katherine Cornewayle, wyffe unto Sir Thomas Cornewayle of Burford, Kt., the which Katerine decessed out of this transitory world 23d day of January in the year of our Lord 1523."

On the North side of the chancel is a large painting.

1585. On wood, enclosed in doors on which are painted on one side the Apostles, and on the other various family Coats of Arms. It bears the signature of Melchior Salabos 1588, otherwise "Gerardino Milanese."

The painting represents three life size figures:—
Richard Cornwall, 9th Baron of Burford, d. 1568, aged 75.
Jenet his wife, d. and h. of Henry Wogan, Esq., d. 1547, aged 40.
Edmond, s. and h. to Richard and Jenet, who d. sp. 1585, aged 50.

On the Tryptych above is written—
"Regard not these pictures, but follow the Lord,
"As did the Apostles in Lyffe and in word."
And underneath

Syth death so certain ys and shoer,
And so uncertain ys the houer,
Regard the concell which I gyve,
Lyve well to dye, dye well to lyve.
For as you are, so once was I,
And as I am, so shall you be,
Altho' that ye be fayre and younge,
Wyse, welthy, hardy, stout and strong.
Your debt you shall to nature paye,
Theyrefore thynke on the latter daye,
And pray to God that He may send,
You grace to make a godly end.
O Lord our Sowles receave,
And ek our sinns forgyve,
With joye this world we leave,
And hope with Thee to lyve,
Through Chryst our Lord Amen.

"This monument to be made for the memory of his worshippful parents and most lov'nge brother in the yere of our Lord 1587, by Thomas Cornwall."

The staff of Edmond Cornwall is still preserved at Newnham Court near Tenbury, and corroborates the tradition that the owner was a giant 7 ft. 4 in. in height, which is the exact measurement of the figure in the Monument. A hook shews that it hung from the girdle. It is 5 ft. in length and weighs 8 lbs. It is made of oak and iron, and bears the initials E.C., and the motto "In my defence God me defend." The letters H.B., in a less prominent position perhaps mark the name of the maker of the staff. A legend says that Edmond Cornwall flung a man who displeased him over the park pales of Burford Castle park.

Thomas Cornwall, 11th Baron of Burford, died 1615, aged 81.

O Lord our souls receive,
And ek our sins forgive,
With joy this world we leave,
And hope with Thee to lyve.
Through Christ our Lord Amen.

If piety, strict fidelity and admirable modesty becomes a maiden young or old; if charity that feeds the needy and relieves the afflicted seems high renown and merits funeral honours, let the present age and future years celebrate who exhibits these distinguished virtues. For 69 years she remained faithful and spotless, now she quits this impure world and wins Heaven in the love of her bridegroom Christ. Alas, she is gone! Alas, a burning fever consumed her life, but the glory of her vertues shines with unextinguishable lustre. (Translation.)

The three Rectories were grouped round the Church, the first and second Rectories, now pulled down, were on the North and South sides, the third, the residence of the Revd. Crofton M. McLaughlin, the present Rector, retains some Jacobean features but was almost rebuilt by Revd. Prebendary James Wayland Joyce, Rector of 3rd Portion of Burford 1843 till his death in 1887.

1799. Honble. and Revd. George Rushout, Ch., M.A., from All Souls' College, admitted to 1st Portion 1799 (also) in 1801. 2nd son of 2nd Lord Northwick by Rebecca, d. of Humphrey Bowles, Esqre; married, 1803, Caroline, d. of 7th Earl of Galloway, and died Oct., 1842, leaving a son, the late Lord Northwick, and 2 daughters, Harriet and Georgina, who continued to live at Burford House until their death, and to whom the parish and church owe a lasting debt of gratitude.

It is apparent that the three adjacent Rectories at Burford, with no fixed arrangement as to sphere of work, was an inconvenient one for the 3 Portionary Rectors. It is true that at Boraston, Whatton and Nash there were ancient Chapels, all containing some traces of Norman work, but no residences. Accordingly, (though not without difficulty) a division was made in 1849, rectories for the 1st and 2nd Portioners erected and the conditions entered in the Parish Register in the following manner:—

STATEMENT, 1849.

The Parish of Burford is a Parish in Portions. There are 3 Rectors, who are entitled severally Rectors of 1st, 2nd and 3rd Portions. They are inducted into the Mother Church, the Care and Government of the Souls of the Parishioners of the said Parish are committed to them at their institution without any distinction or limitation, and they are severally authorised to preach the Word of God in the Parish Church aforesaid, they are legally liable to repair the Chancel of the Mother Church, and they have a right to possess the Churchyard upon certain years. The whole Parish may be assessed for Church Rates for the repairs of the Mother Church, and kneelings are possessed there by inhabitants from all quarters of the Parish promiscuously. There are 3 Chapels of ease in the Parish.

The Chapel yard of Boraston Chapel belongs to the 1st Portionist. The Chapel yard of Nash belongs to the 2nd Portionist, and the Chapel yard of Whitton belongs to the 3rd Portionist. There are 8 Townships in the Parish, each Township is rated separately for the support of its own roads. Some are united in the rating and maintenance of the poor. The Township of Whitton is rated separately for the supporting the Chapel of Whitton, and the Township of Boraston for the Chapel of Boraston.

A piece of land of 12 acres provides for the repair of Nash Chapel. There are no burial grounds belonging to the Chapels; the churchyard for the whole Parish is at Burford

No division of the spiritual duties of the Parish seems to have been made by any Ecclesiastical authority, nor does any custom among the Rectors themselves (beyond the period of the Incumbency of the last Rectors) point out any separate Ministerial division of the spiritual duties. During the incumbency of the last 2 Rectors the duty of Whitton Chapel was performed by the 2nd Portioner, and the duty of the Mother Church by the 1st and 3rd Portioners, but during this period Bishop Grey obliged the 2nd Portioner, the Revd. Edward Green, to raise the salary of his Curate, the Revd. David Jones, from 50 to 70 pounds per annum, because his Lordship considered that a 3rd part of the population might legally be assigned to the 2nd Portioner.

It is now sought to divide the spiritual duties. The 1st Portion has the largest income. He is willing to take the duties of Nash and Boraston Chapels as at present performed (although he does not think that the whole duty at Nash legally belongs to him), together with a proportion of population according to his income, although he is of opinion that only 3rd of the population is rightly appertaining to him.

The 2nd Portioner objects to the population which thus must be assigned to him for the following reasons :—

1st—A part of the population attend the Chapel of Nash, and he considers that he cannot properly minister to those who attend other Churches than his own.

2nd—He considers that the Whitton Township, comprising a population of 61, and 16 houses, only appertains to him because his predecessor the Revd. Edward Green performed only the duty of Whitton Chapel.

To the 1st objection it is replied that the asserted evil arises from the 2nd Portionist not taking his legal share of the duty of Nash Chapel, that the objection is wrong in principle, the Church of England being parochial and not congregational, that her ministers must attend to those within the districts or territorial divisions, not those who may happen to attend their Church; that there is scarcely a Parish in the country where people do not resort to other Churches than their own, when their own Church is at a distance; that in the particular part objected to (a part of the Knowl though some frequent Nash Chapel, a considerable portion attend Coreley and Hope Churches, and yet legally unless one of the Rectors of Burford takes the charge of them they must be entirely neglected. And lastly that the 2nd Portionist ought to have this duty. He is so much nearer to it than the other Portioners. To the 2nd objection it is replied that the custom of one or two gentlemen cannot possibly bind their successors; that the Revd. Edward Green might have neglected his duty, and that should not form a precedent for the 2nd Portioner of Burford neglecting his duty during all time.

These Registers were transcribed and illustrated by Mrs. Baldwyn Childe, and revised with the originals by Miss Mary Joyce. They were seen through the press by G. W. S. Sparrow, Esq., and are now printed by subscription with the kind permission of the Rector, the Revd. Crofton McLaughlin.

Half the cost of printing these Registers was generously undertaken by Colonel Cornewall Legh, of High Legh. The remaining half by subscribers, to each of whom a copy of the book is presented.

To the Churchwardens of the Parish of Burford & all others whom it doth or may in any wise concerne—

Whereas in the late troublesome times many persons were buried within the Chappell of Nash in the parish of Burford though the same were not a legall burying place & amongst others George Thomson of Shirehouse in the parish of Burford aforesaid and whereas Margaret the wife of the said George now dead did in her lifetime earnestly desire to be at her death interred by her said husband, her request being both pious and naturall I do by these presents give order that she be interred in the Chappell & place above said according to her desire: provided yet that neither the Minister of Burford to whom it belonges be hereby deprived of his accustomed fees for buriall nor this one act made a precedent to any others to bury in the place above said at any time hereafter.

Given under my hand at my house Croft Castle the first day of January Ao Consecrationis meæ decimo quinto.

HER: HEREFORD.

The original of this order was put in ye parish Chest March ye 18: 1792 by John Richards, Churchwarden.

1798.

Mem. May 17th.

We this day being Holy Thursday went the boundaries between this parish & the parish of Greet which had been neglected going for great number of years.

The only 2 men I could find who knew the boundaries well are Gabriel Roberts & Joseph Adis both very old men & have livd. the greatest part of their lives in the parish of Greet.

There were present the Revd. Edward Green Rect. of the 2d Portion of Burford Mr. John Powell of the Harpfields Mr. William Nott of Greet Mr. Morgan Mr. Mason and the Revd. Mr. Hopkins curate of Greet, Jacob Jones Clerk of this parish two sons of Mr. Yates of the Rose & Crown a son of Edward Nott laborer & a servont boy of Mr. Mason's of Greet & myself.

The old men seemed very perfect in their knowledge of the boundaries & went them very readily & to every appearance very correctly, having traced out where several hedges had been stocked up on Mr. Morgan's lower farm.

Js. Ingram, Rect. of 3d Portion.

Mem.

Dec. 17th 1798.

The Revd. St. George Bowles resigned the 1st Portion & the Revd. James Ingram resigned the 3d Portion both in favour of the Honble. & Revd. George Rushout.

Jan. 5 1799.

The Hon. & Rev. George Rushout was inducted into the 1st portion by the Rev. St. George Bowles.

Feb. 2d 1799.

The Hon. & Revd. George Rushout was inducted into the 3d Portion of Burford by Revd. James Ingram.

Willey Registers.

WILLEY is a delightfully situated parish, four miles east from Much Wenlock and six miles north-west from Bridgnorth. It is in the franchise and rural-deanery of Wenlock, archdeaconry of Ludlow, and diocese of Hereford. Its area is 1,397 acres. The population in 1801 was 163; in 1831, 159; in 1851, 144; and in 1911, 154.

Willey Park is the magnificent seat of the Right Hon. Lord Forester, who is the lord of the manor and patron of the rectory. The hall is a spacious and handsome mansion of freestone, in the classic style, situated in an extensive and richly wooded park of about 150 acres, which contains several fine pools. The gardens and pleasure grounds are laid out with much taste, and the house is approached by two avenues of trees of great variety and beauty. The principal front of the residence, with its massive portico, is greatly admired for its superb workmanship and architectural effect.

The Saxon name was Wililey or Wilileg, the meaning being "the willow lea," from the Anglo-Saxon wehg or wilig, a willow, and leah, ley, pasture. In Domesday Book it is termed Wilit, which Mr. Eyton thinks was probably some scribe's inaccuracy. At the Domesday Survey it was held of Earl Roger de Montgomery by Turold de Verley, a Norman or an Angevin, who held thirteen manors in Shropshire under the Norman Earl. These were Longford, Chetwynd, Pilson, Sambrook, Howle, Lawley, Bearstone, Little Drayton, Moreton Corbet, Preston Brockhurst, Willey, Pitchford, and Wigwig.

The following is the Domesday account of Willey :—

"IN ELNOELSTRUI HUNDRED.

"The same Turold holds WILIT, and Hunnit (holds) of him. He himself held it (in Saxon times) and was free. There ½ hide pays geld. There is land (enough) for 2 ploughs. They are there, with 2 vileins and 2 bordars. It was and is worth 5 shillings."

Hunnit, the Saxon under-tenant under Turold was the owner before the Conquest, and was permitted to retain Willey under a Norman lord. He was brother of Uluiet, and these brothers jointly held Moreton Corbet, Preston Brockhurst, and Lawley, as undertenants to the same Turold de Verley. Turold had a son Robert, who succeeded him. In the reign of Richard I. Willey had become absorbed into the Liberty of Wenlock. In the 13th century it was held of "the fee of Chetwynd,"—a term which included ten out of the thirteen Domesday manors of Turold,—and by the family of Chetwynd under Fitz Alan, to whom the seigneury had passed.

In the twelfth century a family, who took their name from the place, held Willey by favour of the chief lord of the fee. About 1120 Hugo de Welileid and one Turold occurs as witnesses to a Wenlock Charter. In 1180 Warner de Williley was lord of Willey; he was deputy-sheriff of Shropshire in 1199, but was dead in 1231; his wife was Petronilla, daughter and heiress of Robert Fitz-Odo of Kenley, and she was living in 1240. Nicholas, son and heir of Warner, was a knight in 1231, but was deceased in 1255; he married Burga, daughter of Ralph de Pitchford, who survived him. They had a son Andrew de Williley, a knight, who was slain at the battle of Evesham in 1265. Sir Andrew had an only daughter and heiress, Burga de Williley. Burga was twice married, first to Philip de Stapleton, who died without issue in 1283, and secondly to Sir Richard de Harley, of Harley, knight. By this marriage the manors of Willey and Kenley came to the Harleys. Burga de Harley was living in 1331.

In 1327, the following inhabitants of Wylileye were assessed to the Subsidy:—Burga de Wylileye iiijs, Ralph de Wylileye ijs, Nicholas le Spencer xiiijd, Richard Ball xiijd, Henry son of Ralph ixd, William Potel xiijd, Richard de Swyney xiijd, Walter de Sheynton xviijd, John Corbet xijd.

Sir Richard de Harley was Sheriff of Shropshire in 1300, M.P. for the County in 1305—6, had a grant of free warren in 1301, and died in 1320. His eldest son, Sir Robert Harley, knight, married in 1296 Margaret, daughter and coheir of Sir Brian de Brampton, lord of Brampton, Kinlet, &c. They had two sons. The elder son, Sir Robert de Harley, became lord of Harley and Willey; in 1364 he levied a fine of these manors in order to entail them; he died in 1375, having married Joan, daughter of Sir Robert Corbet of Moreton, knight, by whom he had an only daughter and heiress, Alice de Harley, who succeeded to Willey, and married Sir Hamond de Peshall, knight. The younger son, Sir Bryan de Harley, succeeded to the Brampton Bryan estate, and was ancestor of the Earls of Oxford.

Sir Hamond Peshall and Alice had issue an only daughter and heiress Elizabeth, who was married first to Sir Richard Laken, knight (living temp., Henry V. and VI.), and secondly to Henry Grendon (who died in 1445—6). By her first marriage Willey passed into the Laken (or Lacon) family. The Lakens were seated at Lacon near Wem from a very early period. The senior branch ended with Ellen, the only child of John Laken; she married Robert Hussey, and had an only daughter Margaret, who married Ralph Banaster, and carried the Lacon estate into the Banaster family. Sir Richard Lacon of Willey jure uxoris was grandson of Alan Laken, younger brother of the aforesaid John, and he served the office of Sheriff in 1415. The Willey estate continued in his descendants for six generations, and each successive owner served the office of Sheriff of Shropshire,—William in 1452; Sir Richard in 1477, 1487, and 1498; Sir Thomas in 1510, 1515, and 1533; Richard in 1540, Rowland in 1571, and Sir Francis in 1612. This shows the high position the Lakens (or Lacons) held in the County. At the Inquisition taken after the death of Rowland Lacon, esqr., in 1610, it was found that he died seised of the manor of Willey, the advowson of Willey, ten messuages, four cottages, 200 acres of land, 200 acres of wood, &c., in Willey. His son Sir Francis Lacon married Jane, daughter of Anthony Browne, Viscount Montacute; and his granddaughter Anne Lacon married 18 February, 1640, Sir William Childe, knight, whose descendants now represent the Lacons; and she carried the Lacon estates (except Willey, which had long before been sold) to the Childe family.

In June, 1616, Sir Francis Lacon, who was then described as of Kinlet, agreed to sell the manor and estate of Willey to John Weld of London, esq., in consideration of £7,000. Twelve months later on 20 June, 1617, it was conveyed to Sir Francis Newport, presumably as a trustee; but it was not until 16 May, 1618, that the property was finally conveyed in fee to Mr. Weld. It consisted of the manor of Willey, the park of Willey, the grounds comprised in Willey park, the advowson of the Church, and all houses and lands belonging to the manor of Willey, in the parishes of Willey, &c. On 25 January, 1610, he bought the manor of Marsh from John Slany, Citizen and Merchant Tailor of London; and in 1628 the manor of Chelmarsh from Sir Thomas Jervoise, knight.

John Weld, the purchaser of Willey, was the son of John Weld of London, by Dorothy Greswold, and was seventh in descent from William Weld, the Sheriff of London in 1355. For many generations the Welds were of Eaton in Cheshire. A younger branch was seated at Lulworth Castle in Dorsetshire. John Weld was appointed Town Clerk of London; and, as he was born in 1581, was 37 years of age when he purchased Willey. In the year 1626 he filed a Bill in Chancery against Sir Francis Lacon and Rowland Lacon for granting leases of certain lands which he claimed to have been included in his conveyance. In 1641 he was appointed High Sheriff of the County, and on the breaking out of the Civil War, when the King was at Wellington on 19 September, 1642, he received the honour of Knighthood. His eldest son, John Weld, junior, was knighted at Shrewsbury three days later. Father and son both took an active part on the King's side in the Civil War, for which their estates were sequestrated and they were fined as "delinquents," the father paying £1,121 18s. 4d. and his son £840.[1] Sir John Weld, senior, survived the restoration and died 6 November, 1666, and was buried on the 8th in a vault under the chancel of Willey Church. His son was buried in the same vault on 4 August, 1681. He contributed £12 to the "Free and Voluntary Present to His Majesty" King Charles II. in 1661—2.

The Willey estates continued in the Weld family until July, 1748, when on the death of George Weld, esquire, it passed to the Forester family, Elizabeth Weld, his only surviving child, having married on 4 May, 1734, Brooke Forester, esquire, of Dothill. The Foresters were originally of Watling Street (or Wellington), and were the King's foresters in fee, and held half a virgate of land in Wellington by the service of keeping the King's "hay" of Wellington. They are a family of great antiquity, and trace descent from Hugh Forester, who was living towards the close of the twelfth century.[2]

Unfortunately the early charters relating to the property of this family are lost, but a long series of Inquisitions shows what lands they held. One John Forester became attached to the Court of Henry VIII., and on 22 November, 1520, on account of "certain diseases and infirmities which he hath in his hed," had license from the King "to use and were his bonet on his said hed at all tymes and in all places as well in our presence as eliswhere at his liberte."[3] The family resided at the Old Hall, Wellington, until the middle of the 17th century, when Francis Forester removed to Dothill. His son Sir William Forester married Lady Mary Cecil, daughter of the third Earl of Salisbury. Brooke Forester, grandson of Sir William, after his marriage with Elizabeth Weld on 4 May, 1734, came to reside at Willey, where his children were baptized. His son George Forester, esquire, lord of Willey, died unmarried on 13 July, 1811, having devised all his manors and estates to his cousin Cecil Forester, who took the additional name and arms of Weld, and was created on 17 July, 1821, Baron Forester of Willey. He married Lady Katherine Manners, daughter of the fourth Duke of Rutland, and their grandson Cecil Theodore Weld-Forester, fifth Lord Forester of Willey, is the present lord of Willey and owner of the estate.

The Old Hall of Willey was apparently built in the 16th century, and what remains of it is now used as the estate offices and stabling of the New Hall. It was a spacious building, and in 1673—4 was assessed to the Hearth Tax for 31 fire hearths. The present noble edifice was erected by Wyatt in 1821.

Reference should be made to the magnificent charity of Mary Anne, Lady Forester, the widow of the third Lord Forester, who by her Will in 1893 left about £400,000 to establish a Cottage Hospital at Wenlock, and a seaside Convalescent Home, since built at Llandudno, as has also been a Cottage Hospital at Broseley,—institutions which have proved to be of the greatest value.

THE CHURCH.

The Church of Willey is dedicated to St. John the Baptist. It was originally founded and endowed by the lords of the manor, and there was no parish attached. It was found by inquisition of 1323—4 that there was no cure of souls attached to Willey, but that the Vicar of Wenlock Church was responsible for the services.[1] The Rectors were in early times probably non-resident, as there was no cure of souls; they were nominated by the lords of Willey to the Prior of Wenlock, who presented them to the Bishop of Hereford for institution. In 1291 the Church of Wyleleye was valued at £5 6s. 8d. per annum. In 1357, Wenlock being an "alien Priory," Willey came into the hands of the King, who presented to the rectory. After the dissolution of Wenlock Priory, the lords of the manor (Lacon, Weld, Forester) became patrons, and Lord Forester is the present patron of the rectory. In November, 1822, Willey became amalgamated with Barrow by faculty.

The present Church is mostly modern, and dates chiefly from 1880, when it was restored and aisles built, under the direction of Sir Arthur Blomfield, at a cost of £5,000, by Alexandrina, Lady Forester, in memory of her husband the second Lord Forester. In the Norman period, the Church consisted of nave and chancel, and two splayed round-headed windows in the south wall of the chancel, and a similar window in the north wall of the nave, are of this period. A double window in the north wall of the chancel is possibly 14th century work; and in the nave is a double square-leaded window, which was formerly shuttered. On the north side of the chancel are the remains of a low side window. At the west end is a plain Georgian tower. The plain round font may be of the Norman period or later. On the pulpit, reading-desk, and pews is a good deal of Jacobean carving. At the west end of the south aisle in the large Willey Hall pew.[2]

The chief monuments are those of the Weld and Forester families. On the north side of the chancel is a monument with Corinthian columns and wreath carving to Sir John Weld, knight, who died 6 November, 1666, and to his wife Dame Elizabeth (who died 7 October, 1668); and another to George Weld, esqr., of Willey, and his wife Mary, daughter of Sir Peter Pinder, Bart. At the east end of the south aisle is a small memorial chapel with a finely carved monument by Boehm to the second Lord Forester, depicting the Resurrection.

Underneath the chancel is the old vault, in which many of the Weld family were interred, but there are only these three Inscriptions :—

(1) George the son of George Weld Esqr.
& Margaret his wife
Obijt July the 21st 1722
Ætatis 20.

(2) Mrs. Margaret Weld
Wife of George Weld ye 2d
Esqr. Obijt Decemb. 26
1719. Ætatis 33.

(3) George Forester, Esq.
died July 13, 1811,
In the 76 Year of his Age.

There is a new vault under the Church, containing many fine Monuments and Inscriptions, and here the members of the Forester family are buried.

On 14 October 6 Edward VI. (1552), John Podmore, then parson of Willey, William Heynes and John Corbett, the churchwardens, and Hewe Baylye, returned to the Commissioners the following list of Church Goods belonging to the Church of Willey :—

Imprimis one Chalice with a paten of syluer.
Item one payre of vestements of blacke satem.
Item one Coope of say.
Item ij auter clothes, ij towelles.
Item ij belles and a pyxe of brasse.
Item a Cruett of pewter.

These goods were committed to the presentors.

On 18 May 7 Edward VI. (1553) John Podmore, parson, Wyllyam Henys and John Corbett, churchwardens, presented that there were then remaining in the Church of Willey " . . . one chalys of sylver with the patent thereunto . . ."

Some person unknown had given lands to maintain certain lights or lamps in the Church of Willey. By Act of Parliament passed at the close of the year 1547, all lands given to maintain obits, lights or lamps in Churches were forfeited to the Crown. The Commissioners for Co. Salop certified, 20 November, 1548, that there were in " the paryshe of Wylley, certen landes within the said parishe geven to the mayntenaunce of certen lyghtis for ever by yere . . . . . ijs."

In 1552 there were two bells in the Church; in 1740 and in 1752 the number of bells was three. There are now five bells, two new ones (cast by Mears and Stainbank) having been added in 1880. The two oldest bells are dated 1618, and were cast by William Clibury. The tenor bell is by Joseph Smith, of Edgbaston, and bears an inscription " Richard Roden, Church Warden, 1726."[1]

At the Religious Census of Shropshire taken in 1676, there were at Willey 90 Conformists, being " inhabitants above the age of sixteen "; no Papists, and no Nonconformists. The total population would then probably be about 180.

[1] See the Shropshire Archæological Society's Transactions, 3rd Series, II, 245—6.

During the Commonwealth, when Presbyterianism was in the ascendancy, Shropshire was in June, 1646, divided into six Classical Presbyteries, and Willey was placed in the third Classis.

In the King's Books, the Rectory of Willey is valued at £5 6s. 2d.

In the Bishop's Registers there are notes of several appointments to the Rectory of Willey, by the family of de la Launde, the patrons. These Rectors are :—1287, William de la Launde ; 1306, William de Gittheby ; 1309, Philip de Wick ; 1334, Nicholas de Brewood. In 1350, William de While was presented by Sir Thomas de Maurdyn ; in 1351, Thomas de Houton was presented by Thomas de Preston, and the same year Gilbert de Hundeton was instituted. I take these not to be Rectors of Willey in Shropshire, because the de la Launde family were not the patrons. They were Rectors probably of some place with a similar name, perhaps Willersey in Herefordshire. It is hardly possible that Willey in Warwickshire could be the place, because that is in the diocese of Worcester, and their institutions would not be in the Hereford Registers.

The following is the most complete list of the Rectors of Willey, that I have been able to compile from various sources :—

John Corbett, a native of Willey, born at the Dean in 1656, son of Richard and Judith Corbett of Willey, was M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford, and praelector of Greek. He died 15 June, 1688, aged 32, and was buried at Christ Church, where is a monument to his memory. His will was proved at Oxford, 16 October, 1688. (See Wood's Colleges and Halls, edit. Gutch, i. 481.)

The following Curates of Willey occur in the Register:—1759, John Marsh; 1763, Robert Parry; 1767, Christopher Hill; 1769, Richard Dewhurst; 1774, John Brown; 1779, Henry Williams.

The Parish Register Abstract of 1831 has this account of the Willey Parish Registers:—" WILLEY R., No. I., Bap. 1644—1812, Bur. 1666—1811, Marr. 1665—1753. No. II., Marr. 1754—1812."

Shropshire Parish Documents issued by the Salop County Council in 1903 gives this information:—

" General Register, 1644—1755 (imperfect—several leaves missing):
Baptisms begin 1644 and end 1812.
Marriages begin 1665 and end 1754.
Burials begin 1666 and end 1811.
Register of Marriages, 1755—1811."

The earliest volume is a parchment book of 35 leaves, measuring 13 inches by 7 inches, in a brown leather cover with clasps. It is in good condition and well written, but several blank leaves have been cut out. The Baptisms, Marriages and Burials are separated. The Baptisms are written in one handwriting from 1644 to 1675, and are perhaps a copy of an earlier register. The Marriages and Burials are in a different hand, and are apparently original entries,—excepting the first nine burial entries (four of which have no dates), and the first seven marriage entries, which seem to be copies of an earlier register. On the fly leaf are some notes of fees payable at the Bishop's Visitation, the building of the new Rectory by George Weld, Esq., in 1736, the dedication of the Church, and a sermon preached at Cambridge by Rector Fayle, and his admission to the Degree of D.D. There is also an entry of the Induction of the Rev. John Williams in 1727.

The second volume is a paper book in a parchment cover, 14 inches by 9½ inches, and contains entries of 71 marriages, between 1755 and 1811, on the usual printed forms. A note on the fly-leaf states that the book was bought at Bridgnorth on 1 February, 1755, for 4s. 6d.

The principal families named in these Registers are those of Weld (1644—1759), and Forester (1734 to 1811). There are also entries relating to the allied families of Pope (1665—69), Polden (1665), and Wolryche, Bart. (1689—94); also to Corbett of the Dean (1653—91), and Smitheman (1741).

It remains only to add that the Registers were copied by Mr. T. R. Horton, and afterwards collated with the original Registers by the Rev. W. G. D. Fletcher, F.S.A., who has also seen them through the press. They are now printed with the kind permission of the Rev. W. H. Wayne, the present Rector of Willey, Lord Forester and Mrs. Baldwyn-Childe having generously defrayed the cost.

Neen Sollars.

Neen Sollars Registers.

NEEN SOLARS (or Lower Neen) lies 12 miles from Ludlow, 12½ from Kidderminster, and 3 from Cleobury Mortimer, in the Hundred of Overs, rural deanery of Burford, archdeaconry of Ludlow, and diocese of Hereford. It is bounded on the north by Cleobury Mortimer, on the south and east by Worcestershire, and on the west by the parish of Milson, which is a chapelry of Neen Solars. The population of Milson and Neen Solars in 1911 was 326, of which 121 were at Milson; and the acreage of Neen 1778 acres, and of Milson 1,025 acres.

In 1676 Neen Solars had a population of 98 over the age of 16, all "Conformists," while Milson had 62.

In Saxon times the manor was in the hundred of Condetret and was held by Siward the Saxon, who held large estates in Shropshire, some of them under the Bishop of Worcester.

The Domesday record tells us that in 1086 "The same Osbern holds Nene, and Siward holds it of him. The same Siward held it, and was a free man. The manor was never hidaged, nor ever paid geld. There is arable land for five ox-teams. In demesne is one team, and ten serfs, and a mill paying a bushel of corn. In King Edward's time the manor was worth 40s. per annum. Now it is worth 18s." The fact that the manor had never been assessed for the Danegeld makes it probable that it had once been Church property, and had been by some means lost to the See of Worcester. Osbern fitz Richard, Lord of Richard's Castle, the overlord in 1086, had a son Hugh, whose son Osbern fitz Hugh, about 1180, gave Neen to Baldwin le Poer. Baldwin left three daughters, Eustacia, Petronella, and Elena, and Hugh de Say, nephew and heir of Osbern, gave the control of their lands to Roger de Solars, of Dorstone, in Herefordshire. Petronella le Poer married a De Freyne (de Fraxino, i.e. Ash); Elena and Eustacia married members of the De Solars family, and from them Neen Baldwin, as it was often called, became Neen Solars. The overlordship passed to the Mortimers of Richard's Castle, and the Mortimers of Wigmore held the manor under them, but over the co-parceners.

Both the De Freyne and the De Solars families held land in Herefordshire and Sutton Frene, near Hereford, took its name from the former. In 1327, nineteen inhabitants were assessed for the King's Subsidy, nearly all of whom were distinctly well-to-do. John Corbet, apparently the most wealthy, was one of the Corbets of Habberley, who held Merebrook and Tetneshull (Tetstill), near Neen. Tetstill had been a separate manor in 1086, held by Siward under the Church of Worcester. It then had land for 3½ teams, and a wood that could fatten 40 swine.

Leland mentions that in his day (1530) there were 'blo shoppes,' i.e., iron forges, on the Milbrook that came down from Catherton Clee. In those days of smelting by charcoal, this would imply a thickly wooded district.

The Herald's Visitation of 1623 gives the pedigree of Coningsby of Neen Solars, and states that John Coningsby married Mary, daughter of John Solars, and that their son Roger, steward to the Earl of Warwick, married the daughter and heiress of John Bagot of Morton Bagot, co.

Warwick. The eldest son of Roger, according to the Heralds, married a Warwickshire heiress, while the second Sir William, married Beatrice, daughter of Ingelram de Frene, of Neen Solars. Sir William was knighted on the field of Cregy, and his son Thomas also took part in the French wars, being taken prisoner by Johan de Almayne, whose daughter Theophenia (Tiffany) he married. No clue is given as to whether their son John, or his son and grandson lived at Neen, but his great-grandson, Humphrey, whose mother was heiress of John Whethill, is called of Neen Solars, and is said to have married Blanche, daughter of Sir Robert Corbet. The Coningsbys, of Hertfordshire, are said to be descended from Humphrey's brother Thomas. The Coningsbys were of Neen for at least four generations longer, down to Humphrey the traveller and scholar, whose tomb is in Neen Solars Church. His grandmother came from Essex, and this seems to have given some of the junior branch an interest in the eastern counties, though other members lived at Leominster. Humphrey the traveller was born in or about 1567, and started in 1610 to Venice to begin the journey, from which he never returned. His monument has, with several other mottoes and verses, above his effigy in armour, the following long inscription, which is of considerable interest :

" This statue and monument was made in commemoration of Humfrey Conyngesby Esq. the only sonne of John Conyngesby of Nene Solers Esq : and of Anne his wife the daughter of Thomas Barneby of Hull in the Parish of Bockleton and County of Worcester Esq : which Humfrey Conyngesby was late lorde of this Nene Sollers and patron of this Church and was heire of the eldest lyne and family of Conyngesbys from whom the rest are derived, which before King Johns tyme were Barons of England and then resided at Conyngesby in Lincolnshire. He was a perfect scoller by education and a greate travayler by his own affection he began his first travaill in April 1594 being 27 years of age 2 monethes and for four years and upwards remayned in Fraunce, Germanie Italy and Sicilye and then returned home for a little while and tooke his jorney again into Bohemia, Polonia, and Hungary where for defence of the Cristian Faith he putt himself under the bannar of Rodulphe the second Emperour of the Romanes (as a voluntary gentillman) at the Seedge of Strigonium in Hungary against the Turkes, afterwards to satisfie his desier (wch was to see the most eminent places and persons) he went into Turkey, and to Natolia, to Troy in Asia by Sestos and Abydos, through the Hellespont and into the iles of Zant, Chios, Rhodes, Candy, Cyprus and divers other places in the Archipelago, he visited also sundry auncient and famous places of Greece, as Arcadia, Corinth, Thessalonika, Ephesus and Athens, went over the plaine of Thermopylae (by wch Xerxes passed into Greece) and to the top of Mount Athos, the highest hill in Greece, and so arrived at Constantinople in the raigne of Mahomet the Third Emperour of the Turks who to do him honor gave him a Turkysh gowne of cloth of gould and his mother the Sultana Ebrita gave him another rich gowne of cloth of silver and 250 chequins in gould, and after 13 monethes aboade there he returned to England, to the joy of his frends where staying awhile he went into Spaine and came back in safety, and againe the 4th tyme he tooke his jorney from London to Venice the 10th day of October 1610, and from that day was never after seene by any of his acquaintance on this side the seas or beyond nor any certainty knowne of his death, wher when or how, and from his first jorney to his 4th and last was 16 years and 6 monethes. He lived a batchelar, leaving behind him one sister of the whole bloode named Katherin the wife of Edward Freeman of Emlode in the County of Worcester Esq. and one other sister by the mothers side named Joyce Jeffreys whom he made executrix of his last will and testament appointing her thereby to erect him a tombe with an inscription of his condition, life and death, which she hath heare performed though short of his perfections.

Tempora mutantur. Anno Domini 1624."

The Heralds' Visitation does not show the connection with the Coningsby family of Hampton, co. Hereford, which was a younger branch of that of Neen Solars. Sir Thomas, knighted by Queen Elizabeth in 1591, and one of the Council of the Marches was descended from Humphrey Coningsby, famous as a lawyer in the time of Henry VII. The Coningby Hospital at Hereford was founded by Sir Thomas, the father of the owner of Hampton, Fitz William Coningsby, who held the advowson of Neen Sollars in 1630. He was Sheriff of Hereford in 1642, and suffered much as a Royalist. He was M.P. for Herefordshire in 1640, but was dismissed on technical grounds as holding a share of a soap monopoly, and his son Humphrey took his place in the House of Commons. One account of the family says that they came originally from Coningsby Castle in Lincolnshire, and were settled for several generations in Shropshire before, in the reign of Henry VIII., they bought Hampton Court, the house of the Lenthalls, near Hope under Dinmore. The same account gives the rhyme on Thomas Coningsby's marriage to the daughter of John d'Almain. :—

> "Thomas de Conyngesby
> And his wife Tiffany
> Came out of Brittany
> With his man Maupas
> And her maid Maleface
> And their dog Hardigrace."

Fitz William Coningsby married Cecilia, elder daughter of Henry Neville, Lord Bergavenny. During the Commonwealth her husband's estates were sequestrated, while he was absent from England, and she and her children were on the verge of want. She applied for the grant of one fifth of the income from their estates in Herefordshire and Salop, but after much begging was only granted one fifth of that from Neen Solars,—a very small portion of them. Humphrey Coningsby's half-sister Joyce (daughter of Anne Barneby by her second husband, Henry Freeman of Ham Castle, co. Worcester), was dowered with a comfortable income from his estates there. She had difficulties also with regard to her income, but the Civil War did not bring the financial ruin upon her that it did upon her cousin of Hampton.

The editor of an article in Archaeologia for 1856, on the account-book of Mistress Joyce Jeffreys, says that she or whoever furnished the details of the inscription seems to have a little mixed the chronology. The only Siege of Strigonium (Gran in Lower Hungary) under Mahomet III. was in 1594, the next one and that in 1605 being under his successor Achmet. Mistress Jeffreys, who never married, spent some part of her life at Hampton, and in her note-book she speaks gratefully of Sir Thomas, and often mentions her kinsman Fitz William Coningsby. She lived through stirring times, but died at Ham Castle, her nephew's house, in 1650, and was buried at Clifton-on-Teme, co. Worcester.

Her agent, and probably tenant, at Neen Solars was Humphrey Hardman. She had a favourite god-daughter, Elizabeth Acton (whom she portioned with £800 on her marriage in 1643 to Francis Geers of Garnons), who not improbably was of a Shropshire family, and may have been one of the five daughters of Richard Acton of Dunvall, near Astley Abbotts.

There are two cottages (formerly one house) near the Church, which are traditionally said to have been part of the old Manor House. Or it may have stood just opposite, where now is Neen Court.

The living was in the gift of the Mortimers, and later of the Duke of York, and then of the King.

In 1630, Fitz William Coningsby, of Hampton, co. Hereford, was patron, but Thomas Bury, who seems to have lived at Burford, presented in 1673, Silvester Shaw and his wife in 1704, and Richard Knight in 1753. Sometime between 1795 and 1813 the advowson passed to Worcester College, Oxford, the present patrons.

THE CHURCH.

The Church of All Saints dates in foundation back to at least the 13th century, but nothing of that first building remains. The present Church is an almost unaltered example of 14th century work, consisting of nave, chancel, transepts and low central tower crowned by a spire, a very picturesque whole, especially when seen in spring, rising above the cherry blossom of the orchards.

The Commissioners of Edward VI. in 1553 put on record that Richard Luce, and the churchwardens Rychard Foxe and Gilbert Awyre reported that there remained to the Church "iij bellys, one chalys of sylver wt. the paten therto belongynge." One of these bells still hangs in the belfry. It bears the words: Sit nomen Domini benedictum," and is of 14th century date. The second bell is dated 1590, and is inscribed: "Sancta Trinitas, Unus Deus, miserere nostri." The third, which has on it: "Soli Den gloria, pax hominibus," bears the date 1649. The small bell that now hangs with the three has no inscription, and is not so old.

There was formerly a coat of arms in the east window of the Church, placed there in 1628, by Joyce Jeffreys, in memory of Humphrey Coningsby. The stained glass of the present window was given by Miss E. A. Cook, who gave also the organ and other benefactions to the parish and Church.

The Church is first mentioned in 1287, when the Advowson passed from Mortimer of Richard's Castle to Mortimer of Wigmore.

The Parish Register Abstract of 1831 contains the following summary of the Registers of this Parish :—" NEEN SOLLARS R.

No. I. Bap., 1707-1812.
No. II. Bur., 1678-1812.
No. III. Marr., 1754-1812.
No other Registers can be found."

The first volume contains not Baptisms only, but also Weddings to 1750. A few Burials are also entered, probably by error. There is also a list of Rectors from 1562 ; an entry of the induction of Edward Baugh in 1753, and a note as to the building of the Rectory in 1758. The Churchwardens' Names are given regularly from 1708 to 1750, and also in 1753. It is a book of parchment leaves in a cover of boards faced with vellum. On the fly-leaf is a summary of baptisms from 1558 to 1658.

The second volume contains Burials in woollen from 1678 to 1685, and then goes on to 1812. The Churchwardens names are given from 1684 to 1750. An entry occurs in 1724 of the burial of William and Ann Tippin, who had been married nearly 60 years, and died within two hours of one another. There is a note of Louis XVI. being beheaded on 21 January, 1793, and of the Rector of Hopton Wafers shooting himself on the following day. At the end of the volume is a memorandum of the induction of John Chambers in 1814. It is a volume of paper leaves, 12 by 8 inches, in a parchment cover, but only the first fifteen leaves are written on. The rector and churchwardens usually sign each year to 1751, after which the rector alone usually signs at the bottom of each page. The volume is well written, and is in good condition. Outside the cover is written : " Register of Burials for Neen Solars. Neen."

The third volume, which contains Marriages from 1754 to 1812, has no entries of any special interest. It is a paper book, with the marriage entries all written (not the usual printed forms) in a parchment cover, size 12½ by 8½ inches. There are 326 pages, of which only 37 pages are filled. Outside the cover is : " Marriage Register, Anno Dom : 1754. Neen Sollars." It is well written, and in good condition.

The Marriage Register 1813 to 1851 is a paper book of printed forms, three on each page, in a parchment cover, size 15½ by 10½ inches. There are 100 pages, but only 13 pages containing 29 marriages have been filled up. The volume is one of Eyre & Strahan's (King's Printers) Registers. On the title is " Neen Sollars " ; but in the headings to each page the year is variously spelt Neen Solars, Sollars, Sollers or Solars, Solers.

It is unfortunate that the earlier Registers are lost. A memorandum on the flyleaf of volume I. states that in the 100 years from 1558 to 1658 there were 351 Baptisms, 229 Burials, and 26 Marriages. Probably the Bishop's Transcripts at Hereford would be found to contain entries from about 1660 to the commencement of the existing Registers. There are no entries of great importance in these Registers. The Rectors seem to have not always been resident, and few parishioners are given the prefix "Mr." In 1777, Mr. Thomas Wall occurs, and Mr. Edward Wall in 1783. Mr. John Yarranton and Mr. James Blount are mentioned as marrying away on April 24, 1783; the latter married Elizabeth Best at Cleobury. Another parishioner married away was John Starey of Neen, who in 1674 married Elizabeth Turton at Rowley Regis, Staffordshire. The old house at the Hem in Burford parish bears their initials and the date 1682. Martha Starie is named as leaving some money to the poor of Neen in 1777.

It remains only to add that the Registers were copied by Mr. T. R. Horton. Volume I. was collated and seen through the press by Miss Auden; and the proofs of Volumes II., III., and IV. were compared with the original Registers, as they passed through the press, by the Rev. W. G. D. Fletcher. The Registers are now printed with the kind permission of the Rev. E. J. Newell, the present Rector of Neen Sollars.

Milson.

Milson Registers.

Milson is a scattered parish in South Shropshire, bounded by those of Neen Solars on the south and east, Cleobury Mortimer on the north, and Coreley on the west. It touches on Worcestershire at one southern point.

The village is 11 miles from Ludlow, and lies on the road from Tenbury to Cleobury Mortimer, 4 miles from the latter.

It is in the Hundred of Overs, rural deanery of Burford, archdeaconry of Ludlow, and diocese of Hereford.

In 1086, it is mentioned as a berewick of Neen Solars, though in a different hundred, Neen being at that date in Condetret Hundred, and Milson in Overs.

Domesday, after stating this fact, says: Here are three and half hides geldable. The arable land is enough for six ox-teams. Here three Radmans and three Villeins have three teams. In King Edward's time it was worth 14s. (per annum); now it is worth 10s. Osbern fitz Richard (also lord of Neen Solars) found it waste.

The chief tenants of the Barons of Richard's Castle at Mulstone, as the word was originally written, occur in the 12th century as taking their name from the place. They held the Vill under the Barons till at least the close of the 13th century, when it seems to have been inherited by members of the Goddard family, and in 1350, Robert Partrich held a considerable estate here.

In 1327, the lay Subsidy Roll gives the names of eleven tenants at Milson, all comparatively well-to-do. Christiana de Mulston was the lowest assessment, but it is possible that she was connected with the early owners. Amicia Godard, Walter de Malleye (Mawley), Richard de Paterclive (? Partrich), Philip de Perye and Richard the Miller, were all rated at 2s. and over, and £2 worth of moveable goods would in those days represent a value of over £50 in modern money. (This subsidy, granted to Edward III., was that of a twentieth of all moveable goods, except the horses, armour, plate and jewels of knights, they being already amerced in other ways for the French Wars.) Roger and Robert de Hull, William de Ferne, Hugh de Lutteley, and Richard Bercar (i.e., Shepherd) were less well off than those first mentioned, but they were still distinctly prosperous.

Blakeway's MSS. in the Bodleian Library gives the following account of Milson:— . . . . .*

"Milstone does not occur in Testa de Nevill, but in the book of Fees, 23 Edward I. John Goddoure and William son of Hugh (perhaps Hugh de Frene, coparcener of Neen Solers) held Multon for half a knight's fee of Robert de Mortimer. Hugh Gower held Multon in 9 Edward II. In 12 Edward III. William de Frene granted his lands in Mulston to John Goddard and Margaret his wife. In 2 Henry V. a fine is levied of the Manor of Mulston, Thomas Lygon, complainant, and Richard Bulle and Cecile his wife, deforciants. In 23 Henry VI. Henry Lochard, esq.,

* Blakeway's Salop M.S.S., II. H to N, pages 245–246. For this extract we are indebted to the Rev. Canon Fletcher, Vicar of Wimborne Minster.

lord of the manor, levies a fine of it. In 16 Edward IV. a fine is levied of the manor of Mulston, Richard Littleton, complainant, and Walter Cresset and Margaret his wife, daughter and heir of John Holton, deforciants; in which it was acknowledged to be the right of the said Richard: notwithstanding which fine, his father Sir Thomas, the celebrated author of the Tenures, in his will dated 22 August, 1481, bequeaths to his said son "the reversion of the Manor of Molston besyde Clybery in the County of Shrewsbury"; and in the same year my authorities if correct state Cresset and his wife, who appear to have passed the manor away by fine five years before, to be still possessing it. However, Mr. Littleton appears to have ultimately succeeded to the Manor. He was second son of the Judge, and ancester of the baronets of Pillaton in Staffordshire. Francis Littleton, a younger brother of his great-grandson, Sir Edward Littleton, is styled of this place, and left issue.

The Manor of Milston afterwards became the property of a family named Hunt. See Harl. MS., 1396.

John Hunt, of Milston. = Joan Archer of Aberley, co. Worc.

Thomas Hunt of Milston. = Elizabeth Hervey of Whitton, co. Salop.

John Hunt, serjeant at arms to King Charles I., afterwards to the Parliament. = Sarah, daughter of Richard Billet of Suffolk. Richard Hunt.

Henry Hunt, aged 16 in 1635. (bur. at Milson, 1692.)

No Arms could be proved, yet Serjeant Hunt was buried with escutcheons, party per pale indented a saltire counterchanged. Apparently the Serjeant's issue failed.

Richard Hunt = Elizabeth, sister of Thomas Powys of Henley, Serjeant at law.

Elizabeth Hunt, born 24 December, 1654, died 2 December, 1727. = John Edwards.

Elizabeth, widow of Richard Hunt, married secondly Henry Mytton, esq., of Shipton, to whose son Thomas his half-sister Mrs. Edwards devised the manor and courthouse of Milston, and they are now the property of his grandson Thomas Mytton, esq., of North Cleobury."

The Rev. J. B. Blakeway thus takes the history of the manor down to the early 19th century. Since his time the estate has passed to the Tomkinson family. Thomas Mytton, of Cleobury North, who died in 1829, left a son, Henry George, and four daughters.

The Hunt family of Longnor (afterwards of Boreatton) bore the arms ascribed to Sergeant Hunt, differenced by a crescent to show a younger branch. One of this family also, Richard Hunt, was a serjeant-at-arms in 1623. One account gives Ryton in Condover parish as the original home of the Myttons of Shipton. If this were so, and the Hunts of Milson came of the same stock as those of Longnor (also in the old parish of Condover), there may have been an inherited friendship between the families.

Members of the Hunt family continued to live at Milson into the 18th century. William Hunt, whose son, Fabian, was buried on March 6, 1683—4, seems to have lived till 1718, and another Fabian Hunt was buried in 1721. William Hunt was a churchwarden in 1700, 1707 and 1715. An earlier William Hunt was buried in 1691, and Henry Hunt (apparently the Henry aged 16 in 1635) was buried in 1692. The last of the name in the registers is Martha Hunt, buried in 1741.

In 1553, Edward VI. commissioners reported that at Mylstone Chapel, Richard Luce was parson, and Humphrey Sym . . . . (halt the name is illegible) and Harry Wyggemore, church wardens. They were held responsible for the safe keeping of three bells of one accord, and a chalice of silver with a paten, parcell gilt.

One of the old three bells still remains. It is probably of 14th century date but bears no inscription. The second bell was cast by Abraham Rudhall in 1698, and the third is apparently of the 17th century, but uninscribed. A small bell, cast by Abraham Rudhall, seems to have been added in 1723.

At the time of the Commonwealth, Milson was placed in the fifth Shropshire Classis, which was practically that of Ludlow. In 1676, the parish had 62 inhabitants above the age of 16, all "Conformists."

The list of clergy and patrons of the living is identical with that of Neen Solars, given in the introduction to that register.

The Registers extant contain few items of interest. The prefix "Mr." is given in 1782 to Thomas Yarranton who is noted as having died on the same day as his son was born, and 4 years later, Mr. John Yarranton is mentioned. Mr. Legas occurs in 1701, and Mr. Sheppard in 1702, probably the latter was identical with Mr. Richard Sheppard who was one of the churchwardens in 1695, and who died in 1711, and the former with Sebastian Legas, warden in 1694. Mr. John Yarranton is mentioned in the Neen Solars register as having been married at Neen Savage on April 24, 1783.

There are a few unusual names: Fabian, Ferdinando, Vincent, Fishley, and Ambrose, among masculine ones, and Fabia, Amiab, Sebra, Timothea, and Drusilla in feminine.

The only registers now extant are:

I. The book of baptisms dating from 1706—1812. It contains the entries of marriages to 1753, and one of 1812.

II. The volume of burials which begins in 1678, and for the first 5 the years entries carefully record in full the affidavit of the burial in woollen.

III. The Marriage Register of 1756—1809 in the ordinary paper book.

The Parish Register Abstract of 1831 gives: "Milson P.C. No. 1 (parchment), Bap., 1716—1812; No. II., Bur., 1678—1812; No. III., Mar., 1756—1809. No other registers can be found."

Probably earlier extracts could be obtained from the Bishop's Transcripts at Hereford.

Milson and Neen have been intimately connected since the 11th century, and probably longer. Their churches were held as one Rectory, and we have no list of separate incumbents of Milson. There is documentary record of the existence of the Church of Neen in the 13th century, and the architecture of Milson goes back to the 12th century, or possibly the close of the 11th. There are two early stone slabs near the door. The inscribed cross on the one in the porch is of rather unusual design.

The Church of St. George consists of chancel and nave of Norman date, and a tower of late 12th or early 13th century stone work with a timber roof, old, but probably not co-eval with the base. There is a picturesque timber porch of the 14th century, and some modern additions in the chancel roof and the east window. The latter was in a ruinous condition when rebuilt by the Rev. J. Baker.

It is remarkable that although the parishes of Milson and Neen Solars have been so intimately connected the estates have been quite separate, and no names except those of the clergy seem found in both registers. No Hunt entries occur at Neen Solars, and no Coningsby ones at Milson. Mistress Joyce Jeffreys (the daughter of Henry Jeffreys of Ham Castle in the Teme Valley, and his wife Anne, the widow of John Coningsby of Neen), who inherited the interest of her half-brother, Humphrey Coningsby in Neen, seems to have had no connection with Milson.

The Registers were copied by Mr. T. R. Horton, and the copy has been collated with the original by the Rev. W. G. D. Fletcher. They are here printed by the kind permission of the Rev. E. J. Newell, Rector of Milson and Neen Solars.
